

Boy Scouts Beginning Clean Up

"We want to help keep Sedalia clean so visitors can say they've been to a clean city." This is one of the reasons why 12-year-old Robert Johnson, 2405 Albert Lee, is excited about the "Scouting Keep America Beautiful" Day Saturday by Boy Scouts across the nation.

Johnson, who is a leader of Boy Scout Troop 56 (sponsored by the Heber Hunt PTA), told The Democrat-Capital that he would like for other Sedalians to help keep the city clean by "not throwing cans away."

Johnson was one of eight Boy Scout troop leaders who were with Mayor Jerry Jones Thursday morning when he signed a proclamation designating Saturday as "Scouting Keep America Beautiful Day." The boys were accompanied by Don Livingston, chairman of the Twin Forks district, and Rex Rudy, marketing director for Parkhurst Inc., who was recently named director-coordinator of Saturday's observance.

Johnson added that the Scouts hope to raise funds for their activities by selling beverage bottles and cans which they will collect Saturday.

Scout Troop 66 leader Charles Braden, 2500 Southwest Blvd., said his troop wants to "serve Sedalia in many ways and collecting litter is one of them."

Sedalia Boy Scouts will be among the more than six million scouts and their adult leaders in the United States who will forge a major attack against litter on streets, highways and in recreation areas.

According to Rudy, more than 400 scouts in the Twin Forks district, comprising Pettis and Saline Counties, will be involved in the cleanup campaign Saturday. Parkhurst Manufacturing Co. will provide trailers to haul the trash to the State Fairgrounds.

Rudy said that "Scouting Keep America Beautiful Day" is a highlight of the Boy Scouts' Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources). Throughout the year the project conducts action programs designed to improve the environment and to create concern for its betterment, Rudy said.

He added that each boy who participates will be presented a special neckerchief slide by Peuton Breckinridge, Oklahoma state senator from Tulsa, and treated to a dinner at 5:30 p.m. Saturday in the Sheep Pavilion on the fairgrounds.

Rudy pointed out that one of the objectives of Saturday's observance is to "get across the story of recycling as a partial answer to the solid waste problem." Local bottling companies will have representatives at the Sheep Pavilion to buy bottles from the Boy Scouts, Rudy added.

He said that the litter collected on Saturday will be gathered into one heap on the fairgrounds to dramatize the Boy Scouts' effort in improving Sedalia's environment.

Plan Anti-Litter Campaign

Mayor Jerry Jones discusses ways of keeping Sedalia clean with leaders of Boy Scout troops in Sedalia after he signed a proclamation Thursday morning designating Saturday as "Scouting Keep America Beautiful Day." Troop leaders who will spearhead the

Ruling in July

By MIKE CULLEN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

A ruling is expected in July from a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner who heard testimony here Wednesday in a labor dispute involving Letourneau Brothers Construction Co.

Charles of unfair labor practices were filed against the company by Sedalia Carpenter Local 1792. The complaint was signed by Thomas C. Hendrix, regional director of the NLRB, and released May 19.

Both parties in the case will receive summaries of Wednesday's hearing within about 10 days and both must file briefs in the case by June 29.

The union claims the Letourneau firm failed to meet wage specifications of a contract allegedly adopted July 1, 1970. It also says the firm tried to persuade employees to drop their union membership.

The union called 10 witnesses during the day-long hearing and one witness was called by the construction company late in the afternoon.

The first two witnesses, Louis H. Temple and William Yarboro, were questioned about their affiliation with the Sedalia Builders Association. The union claims that the Letourneau firm is a member of the association and had agreed, along with other members, on certain wage standards.

Yarboro's testimony lasted into the afternoon and dealt mainly with the question of whether a builders association actually existed. Yarboro was called by the NLRB because he is allegedly secretary of the association.

When asked after the hearing if there was such an organization, he said, "I'm pretty confused whether there is or not. We joined together as a body only to negotiate contracts with the union. No one has ever named it the Sedalia Building Association."

During the hearing, Yarboro testified the SBA members did not pay dues, meet regularly, print stationery, or were incorporated or registered in any way. He said, however, the group had appointed officers.

In the afternoon session, Leo Letourneau, co-owner of the construction firm, pointed out that some of his men received paid vacations, if they stayed with the company. In response to a question about the pay scale, posed by E. J. Holland Jr., a labor law specialist with Spencer, Sane, Britt and Brown, a Kansas City law firm representing the construction company, Letourneau said, "We have always tried to pay the scale or better."

The main issue of the hearing apparently is whether Letourneau ever negotiated a contract as a member of a builders' association, and if he did, whether he is bound by any agreements made by such an organization.

The union has charged the company is a member of the Sedalia Builders Association and the association had the authority to negotiate labor contracts with the union.

Letourneau testified no member of his firm had negotiated labor contracts with the union or held memberships in the SBA.

According to Richard Middleton, former business representative for the union, the SBA negotiated a new contract last summer. It was to go into effect in July last year and called for an initial pay hike of 25 cents an hour. A second pay hike, scheduled for Jan. 1, 1971, was not received from the Letourneau firm, it was charged.

Letourneau again denied a connection with the SBA or being involved in contract negotiation.

Included in the charges filed by Hendrix was an allegation that Letourneau told an employee his firm was "going non-union"

Drug Control Measure OK

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A broad new drug control bill was passed by the Missouri Senate today, 30-1. It now returns to the House for action on Senate changes. One of the bill's major provisions reduces the penalty for a first offense possession of marijuana—35 grams or less—from a felony to a misdemeanor, punishable by up to a year in jail or $1,000 fine or both.

Second and later offenses would be felonies, punishable by up to five years in prison.

The bill is intended to conform with federal definitions of prohibited drugs which could be obtained only by prescription and has had wide support from doctors, druggists and law enforcement officials.

One feature would require the State Department of Education to set up educational programs on drug abuse in the schools.

The division of health could add additional drugs to the prohibited list by regulation, but only after hearings and review.

The Senate started work on the measure Wednesday but had to lay it over because the afternoon was set aside for memorial services for nine former senators who have died in the last two years.

The drug bill would bring classification of drugs and narcotics in line with federal standards and set up an educational program on drug abuse in public schools.

A major provision would reduce the first offense penalty for use or possession of marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor.

Earlier the Senate advanced to position for passage a bill to ratify the U.S. Constitutional Amendment giving 18-year-olds the right to vote in all elections, national, state and local.

Sen. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington, sponsoring the measure, said he hoped the Senate would pass it next week so it could go to the House for action in the final week of the session.

NATO Talks See Progress

LISBON (AP) — Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty organization claimed today that East-West talks for a Berlin settlement are making progress.

They held out hopes that new talks on a European security conference will begin with the Communist powers when a full agreement on Berlin has been signed, sealed and delivered.

The development came at the opening session of NATO's foreign ministers' council, which heard a report on the Big Four negotiations over Berlin from Maurice Schumann of France.

The two-day NATO meeting began after saboteurs bombed Lisbon's central post office and blasted communications at three of four other points in the suburbs of the capital.

The downtown blast cut Portugal from communication with the outside world for several hours. The explosions were believed to be the work of leftist urban guerrillas who oppose the government's war in Africa.

Schumann told the council that Soviet leaders advised him in Moscow recently that the Soviet Union is ready to accept responsibility for Western access to Berlin. The East Germans would manage the access routes but in the case of dispute Moscow would be ready to join with the West in settling any problems.

In the council debate Walter Scheel of West Germany said the latest Soviet proposal for reducing troops in Europe was vague. He said he suspected Moscow is trying to sidestep allied preconditions for a Berlin settlement. His government favors exploring Soviet intentions through regular diplomatic channels.

Premier Marcello Caetano of Portugal opened the minister's semiannual meeting, first to be held in Portugal.

With demands growing in the United States for withdrawal of American troops from Europe, Secretary of State William P. Rogers was reported planning to press the allies to agree on early negotiations with the Russians in search of a program of balanced troop reductions by the NATO and Warsaw Pact forces.

As a first step, the Nixon administration was reported proposing that NATO hold a special conference to work out proposals to present to the Russians.

Public opinion in most West European countries is strongly in favor of such negotiations with the Russians. But the West Germans are opposed to any such an agreement with the Soviets unless it is made contingent on new arrangements easing Communist pressure on West Berlin and access to that Communist-surrounded city.

Rogers and the British, French and West German foreign ministers met for dinner Wednesday night, as they do on the eve of each NATO meeting, to discuss the German problem. And the ministers agreed that a Berlin settlement must precede the other and more sweeping negotiations for which the Russians have been pushing, an all-European conference to set up a continental security system.

The NATO allies proposed three years ago that talks on troop reductions be held as a preliminary to the all-European conference, a test of the Soviets' good faith.

The stand taken by the four ministers Wednesday night was a hardening of terms. Previously they said they were prepared to start negotiations after agreement was reached on the basic points of a Berlin settlement. Now they say the agreement must be signed, sealed and ratified.

Approve License Scheme

(Democrat-Capital Service)

JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri House Wednesday approved a combination driver license-identification card bill introduced in mid-January by Rep. Joe Rains, Sedalia. The measure now goes to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to be signed into law.

The new plastic license card would cost $5, and would be good for three years. It would bear a color photograph of the owner.

Rains said the new card would contain a Social Security number and other pertinent identification data. He added the card could be used as the identification required for the purchase of liquor, with the present Liquor Control Department's ID card being eliminated because, according to Rains, "it costs the state a lot of money."

The new license would cost 60-cents more than the current driver's license which is good for a similar three year period. Rains said combining the driver's license and identification card would save the state a considerable amount of money.

Rains indicated the state would contract to have the licenses processed. He said the contractor would install photo equipment in license offices and take applicants' pictures as they arrive.

Although the new card would not replace Social Security cards, Rains said it would make presentation of Social Security numbers more convenient.

Also headed for the governor's desk were bills to:

—Require any new policeman in St. Louis County to show within six months he has successfully passed a course in police training. It would also apply to Jackson County when it becomes a first class county with charter form of government.

—Require motorists to yield the right-of-way for any emergency vehicle, including a volunteer fireman.

—A measure to make sales by state institutions and schools subject to sales tax.

—Require railroad policemen to get permits from the highway patrol and grant them arrest authority on railway grounds or when in hot pursuit.

Eagle Slaughter Might Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Searchers may discover more dead eagles in the remote canyons of Wyoming where 48 of the majestic birds already have been found poisoned, electrocuted or shot to death.

"There's evidence to suggest there are more," said Mrs. Barbara Dobas of Casper, Wyo., a member of National Audubon Society.

Mrs. Dobas told a Senate subcommittee Thursday bad weather forced searchers to abandon efforts last weekend to comb pine-studded canyons where ranchers are suspected of carrying out private predator control programs.

William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, said Thursday 65 lbs. of deadly thallium sulfate sold to ranchers was believed responsible for the deaths of bald and golden eagles in Jackson Canyon near Casper.

"It's conceivable another Jackson Canyon may be discovered," said Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., who added that Wyoming's eagle population may be further endangered by hunters killing for feathers.

"I know one of the gimmicks out West is to con tourists to come West to buy eagle feathers," he said.

In two Wyoming counties, he said, he heard of reports of poachers conducting "night missions—hunting eagles with spotlights to supply tourists with feathers."

Mrs. Dobas said eagles in Wyoming are in great danger.

"We speculate the bald eagles and golden eagles are endangered, perhaps more so in Wyoming than the rest of the nation," she said.

An eagle population must consist of at least 22 per cent immature birds, she said. But in Wyoming, young birds comprise a much lower percentage of the native flocks.

Of the 48 dead eagles found to date, 22 were killed by thallium sulfate, authorities said.

The poison was used to salt the carcasses of dead animals. When the eagles fed on the animals, they ingested sufficient amounts of thallium sulfate to kill them.

Seek More Graves

Waters Inhibiting Search

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — Irrigation water stymied officers today in their efforts to unearth another possible gravesite in the orchards north of Yuba City which have yielded the hacked and stabbed bodies of 23 men.

Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker, who says he is convinced more bodies will be found, was forced to withdraw his crews after they started digging at one "indentation" similar to those that have turned out to be crude graves.

The crews found the ground still too wet.

So far, 23 transients, farm workers and drifters have been found hacked and stabbed to death in crude graves in orchards along the Feather River.

Juan V. Corona, 37, a Mexican-born farm labor contractor with a poor command of English, was formally arraigned in Justice Court Wednesday on 10 counts of murder—the 10 bodies exhumed by the time he was first taken to court one week before.

"I'd like to get it over and be done with it," Whiteaker said as he discussed the continuing search for gravesites. "I believe there are some bodies out there that will never be found."

The sheriff is using infrared aerial photography of the orchards in an effort to spot areas where the soil has been disturbed. Results should be available Friday.

Another potential gravesite still is under water and can't be probed until it dries, the sheriff said.

At Wednesday's closed arraignment before Justice Court Judge J. J. Hankins the proceedings were related to Corona by a Spanish language interpreter, Raoul Ybarra, a local florist.

Hankins asked: "Do you understand what you are being charged with?"

Ybarra replied for Corona: "No. He does not understand."

Hankins: "All right. You have been charged. Mr. Corona, with count one, a violation of Section 187 of the penal code, in that you did murder one Kenneth Edward Whiteaker."

Ybarra: "He don't know."

Hankins: "Well, does he understand what he's charged with?"

Ybarra: "Yes."

On the Auction Block

Real Estate Holdings

Pennsy Is Selling Out

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The financially troubled Penn Central Transportation Co. has proposed selling land and buildings in the heart of New York City worth an estimated $1.24 billion.

The sale could result in the largest real estate deal ever by a single owner.

The property includes six skyscrapers and 17 other parcels of land occupied by buildings, as well as air rights for construction over Grand Central Terminal.

The buildings being offered outright for sale include the Commodore, Roosevelt, Biltmore and Barclay hotels and two office buildings. The land includes that occupied by the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

All of the property covered in Wednesday's announcement is located within a 10-block, 29-acre area bounded by Madison Avenue, Lexington Avenue, 42nd Street and 52nd Street.

The sale is subject to the approval of a federal judge supervising reorganization of the railroad under federal bankruptcy laws.

Last June 21 the railroad declared in a court petition that it was "virtually without cash" and would have to reorganize.

The giant railroad has many nonrailroad assets, including amusement parks in Texas, pipelines in the South, hotels in Florida, and acres of valuable real estate in the nation's principal cities.

Under the provisions of a $100 million loan guarantee granted the Penn Central by the Department of Transportation earlier this year, the firm is required to dispose of its non-transportation properties.

The New York real estate package constitutes roughly one-fourth of the company's total holdings. The 17 parcels of land command total annual rentals of more than $21.2 million.

The centerpiece of the railroad's New York properties is the stately old Grand Central Terminal.

Although the terminal is not for sale, the railroad is offering 1.7 million square feet of air rights above the station to any prospective bidder.

The first hint that Penn Central might dispose of the property came in March when the trustees, in a report on the status of reorganization, said they were studying "sale of other advantageous disposition of ... wholly owned subsidiaries ... investments in affiliated corporations ... and nonrail subsidiaries."

But the trustees told U.S. District Court that "in view of the enormity of the undertaking," the results of their study would not be available until October or November.

Gen. Donaldson Says Charges 'One-Sided'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first U.S. general accused of murdering civilians in South Vietnam says the charges against him are "based on a one-sided report."

Brig. Gen. John W. Donaldson, until recently a top planner for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Wednesday the investigation conducted by the Army's Criminal Intelligence Division was not complete.

"Certain parts of this report and investigation have just now been made available to me and to my counsel," Donaldson said.

"I would like to say I have full faith in the United States Army. The Army has been my life and I have full confidence in the U.S. military judicial system," he said.

The 47-year-old West Point graduate is accused of murdering six Vietnamese civilians and assaulting two others.

The Army has disclosed few details of the case but Pentagon sources said an investigation was started in November after a helicopter pilot said the general took pot shots at Vietnamese civilians while flying over Quang Ngai Province during an operation in late 1968.

Donaldson was commander of the 4th Infantry Brigade at the time of the alleged incidents.

The Army, in announcing the charges, used the term "alleged" in referring to the civilians. It is understood this phrasing was used because an issue in the case is whether they were enemy troops.

Also Wednesday, the Army said Lt. Col. William J. McCloskey has been charged with the death of two Vietnamese civilians in March 1969. The Army said the two cases are not related.

Both officers were members of the Americal Division, 11th Infantry Brigade, units of which were involved in the My Lai massacre. However, My Lai took place in March 1968, before either of the incidents said to have involved Donaldson and McCloskey.

Officials said Donaldson, also the first American general charged with a war crime since 1901, was advised in advance the charges would be announced and took the day off from his job as special assistant to the chief of staff for the 1st Army, headquartered at Ft. Meade, Md.

He spoke to newsmen briefly outside his home in suburban Virginia but refused to answer questions about the basis for the charges.

The charges against Donaldson and McCloskey now will be reviewed by Lt. Gen. Claire Hutchin, commanding general of the 1st Army. He will decide whether to carry the cases further and order a grand jury-type investigation.

Hutchin could dismiss the charges if he finds the evidence is not sufficient to order prosecution.

In a related development, Lt. Col. Anthony B. Herbert, who has brought dereliction of duty accusations against two other officers for allegedly covering up war crimes, told reporters he knew of several high-ranking Army officers who sought retirement after learning a brigadier general was under investigation.

Donaldson took over the 11th Brigade Oct. 4, 1968—more than six months after My Lai. McCloskey served as commander of the 3rd Battalion, 1st Infantry, of the brigade, from Nov. 19, 1968, until March 14, 1969.

The 11th Brigade commander at the time of My Lai, Col. Oran K. Henderson, has been accused of covering up the My Lai incident. Preliminary hearings in his trial at Ft. Meade are in recess.

Confirm Blight In Iowa

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says a virulent form of corn blight has been confirmed in five south-east Iowa counties.

The department said in its weekly report on the disease that nine states now have corn blight reported in small and localized areas.

The Iowa counties are Henry, Johnson, Story, Wapello and Washington.

Another confirmed case of the most damaging Race "T" blight was reported in Douglas County, Neb.

The department last week reported only two confirmed blight areas—Todd County, Ky., and Saint Clair County, Ill.

The new report also listed corn blight, still unconfirmed by laboratory tests as to type in additional counties in Alabama, Florida, Illinois, Mississippi, Tennessee and Texas.

The announcement said the increase was probably caused by spores from local debris and occasional shelling operations.

The Race T blight last year spread from the south into major Midwest producing areas, and the disease was a main factor in the 15 per cent reduction of corn output in 1970.

Two Youths Killed By Overdoses

NEW YORK (AP) — "Hurry!" said the anonymous frightened voice calling the St. John's Hospital emergency ward. "There are two ODs on your steps. Get them before they die."

Attendants found the long-haired young man propped against the back steps of the Queens hospital early Wednesday. The pretty, brown-haired girl was lying with her head in his lap. It was already too late.

Margaret Golup, 16, and Frederick Kraft, 21, were dead, apparently from drug overdoses. They would be the 423rd and 424th persons to die in the city this year from drug-related causes.

Police said Miss Golup's brother, Peter, 20, died three or four weeks ago from an OD—overdose of narcotics. Another brother, John, recovered from an overdose at the same time, they said.

Policemen familiar with the predominantly Irish, Italian and Polish neighborhood said of Miss Golup and the two brothers, "They're just neighborhood kids, not heavy with junk."

"They're a bunch of idiots," said one officer, sadly and without rancor. "They don't know what they're doing and now they're dead."

Civilian Skills Use Planned By Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service and the Army are launching a joint effort to give the draftee a better chance of putting his civilian skills to military use.

And by August, a draftee's induction notice will be accompanied by a pamphlet telling him what to expect from the Army life.

So far as oldtimers at Selective Service and the Army can recall, this is the first time the draft system has been used as a pipeline to advise the draftee about military life.

Beginning today the Army is mailing to each state draft headquarters a six-month supply of "civilian employment training information" labels to be attached to a man's induction notice by his draft board.

The idea is to make sure the Army finds out about a draftee's particular skills. Despite a 10-year-old testing program, the Army has built a reputation of putting square pegs in round holes.

The new information label reads:

"The Army's personnel management system seeks to place the right man in the right job. To accomplish this objective, the Army needs to have a complete description of your civilian background and training to determine whether your qualifications correspond to a military occupational specialty.

"We, therefore, request that you bring all official documentation attesting to your qualifications when you report to the U.S. Army Reception Station."

Then the label adds the caution: "Please realize the Army cannot match everyone to a job related to his civilian training, and that this notification does not constitute a promise that you will be placed in a military specialty commensurate with your civilian training."

The new approach, says an officer dealing with the all-volunteer-army concept, will not only give a man a better chance of using his skills but will "let the man know we're interested in him and trying to utilize him."

The new information pamphlet, expected to be sent out with all induction notices beginning in August, tells the draftee what he'll need to take with him, what Army life will be like and what his relatives need to know.

One Army officer said what little knowledge of the military draftees have is colored by tales of veterans or by the media.

"This lack of official knowledge creates apprehension," he added, "may require unnecessary effort after entering the Army to procure needed items and creates an undesirable first impression of Army service."

Problem In Learning Needs Deep Attention

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My daughter has had two years of first grade, they assigned her to second grade, she, of course, could not do the work. She would come home tense and then during the last half she started nervous things like jerking, jumping and moving her head from side to side. I was worried. We took her to the doctor and he says it's not neurological, and that there should be no pressure on her. He gave me nerve pills for her saying he didn't think they would help. I don't like giving them to her all the time. I am so worried about her. Please tell me what is wrong or if it's something she will overcome. She is going to a special class in school.

Dear Reader — It is important that you understand exactly what your child can and cannot do. There are a number of problems that may be the cause. She may have minor brain damage that causes her difficulty in reading, writing and spelling — a pretty big handicap at any stage of learning. Some children outgrow this difficulty and with treatment can improve their learning ability until the condition improves.

There is always the possibility of a child having a limited ability to learn without brain damage and that may be a permanent lifetime problem.

Then there is the gamut of emotional and psychiatric problems that can be and are also present in children.

It will be time-consuming and take money but it will be worth it to settle the question and, if indicated, get specialized treatment. She will have to have specialized tests to determine her intelligence and whether she has minor brain damage or needs psychiatric help.

I would suggest that with the help of your doctor you try to get the child examined by a child psychiatrist. In the course of evaluating the child's problem he can obtain all the necessary testing. I can't urge this too strongly. The health and well-being of the entire family can be affected by such an unresolved problem. Regardless of what the difficulty is, definition and understanding of the problem will go a long way toward helping. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Vietnam Marines In Drive

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese marines are making a new drive in the northwest corner of the country 15 to 20 miles below the demilitarized zone, where a North Vietnamese buildup is reported.

The drive began last Sunday but was not announced until today for security reasons. The Saigon command did not disclose how many marines are taking part, but a spokesman said several 500-man battalions are fanning out through the rolling foothills and elephant grass.

The only significant contact reported occurred Wednesday afternoon when North Vietnamese forces slammed about 500 mortar rounds into one of the battalions and engaged some of the Saigon troops in light contact.

Field reports said six marines were killed and 41 were wounded in the action nine miles northeast of Khe Sanh. Nine of the enemy were reported killed.

The purpose of the drive is to disrupt North Vietnamese supply lines and infiltration corridors and reduce Hanoi's capabilities for mounting an offensive during the dry season now prevailing in the northern quarter of South Vietnam.

Fifty miles to the south, South Vietnamese infantrymen uncovered a stockpile of 600 mortar rounds during a drive on the edges of the A Shau valley, an important North Vietnamese supply transshipment point.

In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian command reported that its forces overran North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers entrenched in bunkers around a pagoda 10 miles northeast of the Cambodian capital.

Cambodian troops trained by the U.S. Special Forces in Vietnam have been battling the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong for the past week for control of the high ground east of Phnom Penh before most of the region is flooded by monsoon rains. The region is the key to Phnom Penh's eastern defenses and an important way station on the enemy supply route from the western branch of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Thirteen North Vietnamese prisoners of war were flown to Da Nang in a U.S. Air Force transport and put aboard the American troopship Upshur to begin their journey home. One of the 13 was on a litter.

The prisoners are scheduled to be transferred to the North Vietnamese Friday just off the demilitarized zone. The South Vietnamese government offered to let 660 sick or wounded POWs go North but only 13 volunteered to go.

City License Is Obtained For Ambulances

After a lapse of several months, Mid-Missouri Ambulance Service, operated by Rex Hutchings, 206 West Seventh, was licensed again Wednesday, it was reported.

Mrs. Opal Hugelmann, city collector said Hutchings was licensed to operate two ambulances. According to city officials, Hutchings had applied earlier, but had to wait until satisfactory insurance arrangements were made.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick told The Democrat-Capital Thursday that an ambulance operator has to have insurance in the amount of $25,000 for personal injury, $50,000 total coverage for any particular personal injury accident and $5,000 for property damage.

Fires In The City

Slight smoke damage was reported to the Jupiter Discount Store, 206 South Ohio, at 12:04 p.m. Wednesday when grease on a stove ignited. Firemen said the fire had been put out by store employees using fire extinguishers.

A fire call to 217 East Johnson, at 9:55 p.m. Wednesday turned out to be a false alarm.

Area Fires

A fire, believed caused by lightning at 2:37 a.m. Tuesday, destroyed a barn on the William L. Curtis farm, on Highway 65, 10 miles south of Sedalia. Also lost in the fire were a horse, a saddle, five bridles, 100 bales of hay, a bin full of grain, a power mower and a hot water tank.

A spokesman for the Pettis County fire department said that the barn was burned down when the fire crew arrived on the scene.

No cash value has been set on the destroyed property.

Mitchell May Run Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high administration source says Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell will leave his Cabinet post to run President Nixon's 1972 campaign, the Washington Evening Star reports.

The Star said Wednesday that Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst or Jerris Leonard, new administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, may succeed Mitchell as attorney general.

Both the White House and the Justice Department denied the story.

Mitchell directed Nixon's 1968 campaign. He has said repeatedly he has not been asked by the President to get involved in the 1972 elections and did not intend to volunteer for the job.

To Enforce City Sticker Ordinance

Police Chief William Miller said Thursday that the police department will begin issuing citations to Sedalia residents not displaying city stickers. Deadline for the purchase of the stickers was last Tuesday.

Miller said that the stickers should be displayed in the lower right hand corner of the windshield. He said citations will also be issued for improperly displayed stickers.

"We will pay especially close attention to motorcycles and motor scooters, which I understand have not been fully in compliance with the city sticker ordinance," Miller said. Miller estimated that only 160 city stickers have been sold to motorcycle operators, which is about half of those operating in the city, he said.

Police Report

David Schick, an employee of the city parking meter department, reported to police at 8:15 a.m. Thursday that a city parking meter, valued at $75, was missing.

Schick told police he had noticed the meter missing last weekend, but had expected it to turn up.

Circuit Court

Bertha Belle McIntosh, a Kansas Citian who has been in Pettis County jail since Jan. 27 on a charge of receiving stolen property valued at more than $50, Thursday filed two motions in Circuit Court — one to suppress as evidence all articles taken from her at the time of arrest, and the other to suppress and exclude confessions of fact and statements from her now in possession of the prosecuting attorney.

The charge stems from the recovery of $8,000 worth of money orders from four Kansas Citians after their arrest in Sedalia on Jan. 27. The money orders were reportedly stolen from a Safeway store in Kansas City last October.

Another person arrested in the case, Bobby Delan Leonard, is now serving his sentence in the state penitentiary in Jefferson City. Another defendant, Letha Ann Richards, was released on parole earlier and Tommy Mitchell, the fourth suspect, is free on bail.

Manhunt Launched In State

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A manhunt was launched early today in northwest Missouri for two armed men who reportedly abducted a truck driver near the Kansas-Nebraska state line and ordered him to drive them to Chicago.

Missouri Highway Patrolmen, sheriff's officers and police from Chillicothe and Brookfield are searching in the Grand River bottoms near Chillicothe for the two men. Patrol spokesmen said the driver of the truck, Kenneth Flynn of Holton, Kan., told officers that two men armed with pistols accosted him as he entered the truck's cab after making a stop at a port of entry on U.S. Highway 75 south of Omaha, Neb., robbed him and then ordered him to drive them to Chicago.

Flynn said that one mile west of Chillicothe he jammed the brakes on the truck, jumped out and ran. He was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to the Chillicothe police station. The truck was found abandoned where the driver said he had stopped it.

and if the employee did not like it he could find work somewhere else. This was also denied.

Melvin Heimsoth, president of Borchers and Heimsoth Construction Co., Cole Camp, was the only witness called to testify for Letourneau. He said he had been elected president of the SBA at a meeting which he never attended. Heimsoth said he learned of his election from Temple.

He said he never attended any meetings with union representatives and emphasized he had met Letourneau only "within the last two week."

A last-minute attempt by Letourneau's attorney to have the case dismissed on the grounds that more than six months had elapsed since the charges were filed was overruled.

Texas Company Is Low River Bidder

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Markham and Brown Inc. of Dallas, Tex., was apparent low bidder at $706,036 for construction of dikes and repair of channel stabilization along 63 miles of the Missouri River.

Central point for the construction, which the government estimated at $694,010, is near Atchison, Kan.

The opening by the Army Corps of Engineers Wednesday was one of eight to take place this month for such work between Rulp, Neb., to the mouth of the river near St. Louis.

Injury Accident Increase Reported

C. R. Harrell, records clerk, Sedalia Police Department, released figures Wednesday indicating that the number of accidents in May this year was lower than in May 1970. However, there were more injuries but the number of fatalities remained the same, he said.

Last month there were 68 accidents, 25 injuries and one death in the city, compared to 79 accidents, 13 injuries and one death during the same month in 1970.

To date this year, there have been 371 accidents, 98 injuries and one death, compared to 326 accidents, 68 injuries and two deaths for the same period in 1970.

Vietnam Approves New Law

SAIGON (AP) — The lower house of South Vietnam's National Assembly gave final legislative approval today to an election law that is considered a major boost to President Nguyen Van Thieu's candidacy for re-election in October.

The house restored a key provision, knocked out by the Senate, which requires a candidate for the presidency to present a petition of endorsement signed by 40 assembly members or by 100 members of provincial or municipal councils. Thieu sponsored the provision, and some of his critics attacked it as a device to keep other candidates out of the race.

At one point in the debate, an anti-Thieu deputy, Nguyen Dac Dan, brandished a hand grenade and threatened to set it off unless an open vote instead of a secret ballot was held on the controversial provision. After more than three hours of confusion, he won his point and surrendered the grenade.

The bill, which lays down conditions for the legislative elections in August as well as the Oct. 3 presidential election, was approved by a 101-21 standing vote. The South Vietnamese constitution does not require that the measure be sent back to the Senate, and the bill now goes to Thieu within three days. It becomes law in 30 days unless he amends it, and the votes of more than half the members of both houses sitting together would be required to override a presidential amendment.

The lower house also restored a provision permitting each party in the presidential race to have two vice presidential candidates. One would be a "supplemental" candidate who would replace the No. 1 vice presidential candidate should something happen to him during the campaign. But political observers consider this a device to attract more electoral support.

The bill also requires presidential candidates to post a bond of 2 million piasters—$7,500—to cover campaign costs. Foes of Thieu charged that this, too, was an attempt to limit his challengers. The Senate failed in a move to exclude candidates of legal political parties from the requirement.

Thieu is considered a certain candidate for re-election and is expected to face challenges from Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, who has declared his candidacy, and retired Gen. Duong Van Minh, or "Big Minh," hero of the 1965 coup that overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem. Minh says he will run if "certain conditions" are right. This is taken to mean if he finds enough backers to give him a good chance of winning.

Decries Dangers Of Sharing Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's $5 billion revenue sharing plan is "the most dangerous program ever developed," Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., told Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally today.

The direct confrontation between Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and the administration's principal spokesman for revenue sharing increased indications that the plan will die in the committee.

Mills has predicted this, but also has promised to keep looking for ways to help local governments, especially cities, out of their financial difficulties.

Mills said that, contrary to the declared intention of strengthening state and local governments, the revenue sharing plan would weaken them because Congress inevitably would tie strings sooner or later to the federal funds made available.

"You have brought into the committee room a Trojan horse," Mills said. "When all the things in it emerge, you will find more strictures and shackles on the states than before."

"It doesn't frighten me," Connally replied. "It is the sort of change we have to come to."

Connally acknowledged it is possible that future congresses might put conditions on the use of the funds, and said this would be tragic.

But he contended that there is nothing completely new about the principle since states have been sharing revenues with their subdivisions right along.

Dealing President Nixon another setback in a related field, the House Wednesday turned down, 204 to 182, the first of six special revenue-sharing plans to come to a vote.

The House rejected a comprehensive overhaul of federal manpower programs, part of Nixon's project to provide $11 billion in special block allocations superseding many categorical federal-state aid programs.

Some of the sharpest criticism of the $5-billion general revenue-sharing program came from the senior Republican member of Ways and Means, Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin.

Byrnes is backing a substitute measure to provide federal income tax credits for part of the state and local income taxes paid by individuals. He contends it would be more responsible to afford this relief and then leave the states to enact their own additional taxes to take up the slack and finance their own projects.

Byrnes said the amount of tax effort varies widely from state to state and asked: "Why by monetary aid should we perpetuate the disparity between what the states do for themselves?"

He produced figures grouping the states by their tax effort—local revenue raised in proportion to personal income.

Rejection Is Hinted At Paris

PARIS (AP) — An angered North Vietnam indicated today it may refuse to accept from South Vietnam 13 disabled North Vietnamese prisoners of war.

A North Vietnamese news agency dispatch distributed at the Vietnam peace talks, accused the United States and South Vietnam of blocking the release of most of 570 sick and wounded prisoners.

The dispatch said arrangements agreed to for repatriation of the 13 "no longer have any reason to persist."

South Vietnam announced April 29 that 570 North Vietnamese sick and wounded prisoners of war could be repatriated. North Vietnam agreed May 13 to accept them.

Later, it was officially announced that after Red Cross interrogation of the prisoners, only 13 had decided to go. This was confirmed by the International Committee of the Red Cross.

The agency dispatch said that "the United States and the puppet administration of Saigon let it be understood that only 13 persons will be authorized to go to North Vietnam." It called this "an odious act" and "vigorously condemned this dishonest maneuver of the United States and the puppet administration of Saigon."

While it appeared likely that there would be no repatriation operation Friday as scheduled, a North Vietnamese spokesman would not confirm this.

Inside the conference hall, the Viet Cong charged the United States and South Vietnam have launched a "fierce repression" against South Vietnamese who want peace.

Variety Format Dwindles

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The variety show, network television's single most popular form during the 1970-71 season, goes on the endangered species list in the 1971-72 season.

Out of about 15 programs in the category during the past fall and winter, only four have survived for another year.

One theory is that big, brassy variety shows, costing $200,000 or more per program, are victims of the economic pinch because they are good for only one or two repeat broadcasts. There are those—largely older viewers—who believe that variety has been gutted to death: all those long-haired guys in suede jackets and fringe strummin' and preachin' about peace and love. Others insist that there have been so many hours of comedy with music or music with comedy that one show looked pretty much like the next one, particularly since the guest stars were making a circuit around them.

Carol Burnett, Glen Campbell, Dean Martin and Flip Wilson have escaped the wholesale axing, but the casualty list is long, ranging from Ed Sullivan and Lawrence Welk to Johnny Cash, Tom Jones and Andy Williams.

Veteran viewers, accustomed if not reconciled to drastic action, have learned to take these upheavals in stride. Some seasons after a glut of situation comedies, they start dropping like flies. Then Westerns suddenly went out of style. After a rest, they always come back.

Meanwhile, there is a whole summer to get through, and variety shows are the broadcasting equivalent of the publishing business' hammock reading—light, hot weather diversion.

Before long there will be NBC's "Make Your Own Kind of Music," CBS's "Newcomers," and "Sonny and Cher Show," and ABC's "Val Doonican Show." Mel Torme's "It Was a Very Good Year" has already made its ABC debut.

Des O'Connor returned to NBC Wednesday night, once again the summer substitute for "Music Hall." It was an auspicious occasion since Jack Benny, in good form, was the guest star.

The London-made program with its British star is pleasantly low key and easy to take. O'Connor functions agreeably as host and straight man, frequently breaking into song.

Connie Stevens is to be a regular on each of the 14 programs, presumably to give it a valid American aspect. She handled a couple of songs and one dance number very well.

The music is the old-fashioned kind—with a tune. The jokes are basic and often very old or very bad, but carried off with such good humor it is hard to groan too loud.

It is a shooting program, custom-tailored to hammock viewing.

Allende Marches Toward Socialism

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Salvador Allende's left-wing government is picking up speed in its march toward socialism with a campaign to take over most private industry in Chile.

Using laws that have been on the books as far back as the 1920s, government officials have been "requisitioning" private factories and offices in recent weeks for alleged irregularities in production. When the requisition decree is signed, government supervisors take over operations of the affected plants and businesses, ignoring the owners and officers.

"It's a little like the Japanese must have felt when MacArthur took over," said an American employee of the Ford Motor Co., whose plant has been requisitioned.

Ford decided on May 7 to close out its operations in Chile after having lost $16 million since 1969. More than 400 employees at the company's assembly plant were dismissed with a month's salary for every year worked.

The government has since rehired the workers. It called a meeting this week seeking to interest another automotive manufacturer in moving into the plant, which has been in mothballs for six months.

Nine automotive companies currently operate in Chile. Allende's government is expected to detail soon a program to reduce that number to three by 1973. Companies allowed to remain would operate in minority partnership with the government.

General Motors is beginning to feel government pressure. Gerard Boyle, GM's manager for Chile and president of the local American Chamber of Commerce, says: "It's getting more difficult to keep agile here. The government seems to be closing in. In general, I think American businessmen here feel things are going faster."

After a difficult five months of negotiations with its Socialist-controlled union, the company started producing its C30 light truck this month in its assembly plant in Arica.

But Boyle says the 130 trucks now in stock can't be sold because Dirinco, the government price control agency, has not fixed a price for the vehicle.

Meanwhile, the government wants the company to produce more trucks, Boyle says, and left-wing union leaders have been agitating over the firing of nine workers.

Other recent developments in the government's campaign include:

—Takeover of more than 50 per cent of the textile industry with the requisition of 14 mills.

—Passage of the halfway mark in a program to purchase controlling stock in the country's private banks.

—Takeover of the operations of El Teniente, the world's largest underground copper mine, because of alleged production irregularities. The mine was operated by the U.S. Kennecott Corp.

—Passage by Congress of a constitutional amendment, expected to become effective in July, which will complete nationalization of the copper mining industry.

—A call by the Communist-controlled Central Workers Confederation and President Allende for the establishment of worker councils in private factories to carry out the "battle of production." Private businessmen say the councils will make workers into spies.

Say Hoffa Gave Up His Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa reportedly has relinquished his post in a new attempt to win parole from a 13-year prison term for mail fraud and jury tampering, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said Hoffa apparently gave his approval for Frank E. Fitzsimmons, the union's acting president, to announce his candidacy to succeed to the presidency of the nation's largest labor union.

Fitzsimmons had scheduled a noon news conference following a morning meeting of the union's general executive board here. The newspaper said the board is expected to endorse Fitzsimmons' candidacy.

The Post also reported William Loeb, publisher of the Manchester, N.H., Union-Leader, met for 40 minutes Wednesday with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Loeb has been trying to win Hoffa's release since he was jailed in 1967 at the U.S. Detention Center at Lewisburg, Pa.

A high Teamsters official was quoted by the newspaper as saying Loeb's visit to Mitchell was "understandable" in view of the widespread belief in the union that Hoffa's only chance for parole lay in his relinquishing all union activities.

The Post reported a Teamsters lawyer said he expected to try to reopen Hoffa's bid for parole by agreeing to accept his release from jail with the condition that he sever his ties with the Teamsters.

Hoffa has made two unsuccessful bids for parole, the last early in April.

Soybean Planting Is Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soybean planting spurred ahead the last week of May as farmers in major production areas wound up seeding 1971 corn fields, the Agriculture Department reports.

About 85 per cent of the Illinois soybean crop was planted by June 1, compared with 50 per cent last year. Indiana reported soybean planting half completed compared with 35 per cent a year ago.

Midwest farmers had virtually all of their 1971-crop corn in the ground by last weekend, the department said Wednesday. An exception was Nebraska where poor weather had hampered field operations.

Weather also has delayed soybean and cotton planting in much of the South, the report said. Much of the cotton was still being planted or replanted by the weekend.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department recommends that broiler chicken producers cut sales next fall by 5 per cent from 1970 marketings.

The recommendation is in a broiler marketing guide to be issued soon for the fourth quarter of 1971.

In a summary report, the department said the outlook will be needed next October-December "to avoid the extremely depressed" market prices of the fourth quarter 1970.

Stolen Basket Costs Are Big

BOONE, Iowa (AP) — Seven Des Moines youths found out that a stolen picnic lunch can be mighty expensive.

The boys pleaded guilty to larceny of food products and were fined $40 plus court costs and an additional $2 apiece for the stolen food by Justice of the Peace Forest H. Thompson Wednesday.

The group allegedly took a picnic lunch basket belonging to Russell A. Nauman, a Des Moines police officer, from Ledges State Park.

A bystander made a note of the youths' auto license number, and Park Officer Don Pudwill telephoned Polk County Police. The youths were arrested and ordered to appear in Thompson's court here.

Public Relations Sells As Career

By ERNIE HOOD
NEA Correspondent

Sue K., Plymouth, Pa., writes: "I would like to know about public relations as a career field."

Dear Sue: Employment in this field is expected to expand very rapidly in the years ahead. In addition to new jobs created as expanding organizations require more public relations specialists, other openings will occur because of the need to replace workers who retire or leave the field for other reasons.

The demand for public relations workers is expected to grow all through the 1970s, as the population increases and the general level of business activity rises. In recent years there has been an increase in the amount of funds spent on public relations, and many organizations have newly developed public relations departments. This trend is expected to continue in the years ahead.

Starting salaries average about $6,000 a year, according to limited data available. Highest salaries are paid by consulting firms in large cities.

Public relations people engage in a wide range of activity. For example, they provide information about an employer's business to newspapers, magazines, radio, television and other channels of communication; they plan the kind of publicity that will be most effective and contact the people who will be interested in using it.

They also may arrange speaking engagements for company officials and write the speeches they deliver; and often they take part in community affairs, serving as an employer's representative during various campaigns and projects.

Wayne R., Madison, Ind., writes: "Please provide me with information on becoming a chef."

Dear Wayne: This occupation is expected to offer excellent opportunities for employment through the 1970s. The number of cooks and chefs will rise rapidly as new restaurants, hotels and other establishments which serve food are opened. Small restaurants and other eating places where the food preparation is fairly simple will afford young people with the greatest number of opportunities to obtain starting jobs.

Note to Dianne M., Barnwell, S.C.: Employment opportunities for physical therapists are expected to be excellent through the 1970s.

Doctor Advises Parents

By JUDY ROLLINS
Salt Lake Tribune Writer

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Most obese children grow up to be fat adults.

That's the problem dealt with by Dr. Marvin L. Rallinson, pediatrician at the University of Utah Medical Center.

The problem is compounded by the fact that most heavy children have obese parents. Mother is a great cook and prides herself on fixing mountains of food.

His treatment program is four-part:

First, the child should have a thorough medical examination. "The problem is seldom glandular. It's not glandular 99 per cent of the time. A medical exam can pick out that one per cent."

Second is re-educating parent and child about eating.

"The body doesn't need much food to maintain weight. It needs even less to lose weight. A mother must understand that to lose weight a child's intake must be cut."

Third is an exercise program. "As the child gets more and more obese, he gets less and less active. If he's grossly overweight, he's grossly underactive. To lose weight, he must increase activity."

The fourth part of the program is finding out why the child eats as he does.

"The obese child eats to cover his inadequacies. Mother praises him when he cleans up his plate and asks for more. She scolds if he doesn't."

Psychological help, Dr. Rallinson says, may be needed to get rid of family tension. He adds that there is usually more than one obese child in a family and that half of the parents of obese children are overweight.

"Keeping a child from eating at home doesn't prevent him from being obese. Frequent small meals are best. Mothers can prepare food with low calorie value that is filling. Candy must be avoided."

Plan Horse Show

Summer Child Care Series Prepares Teens For Future

Learn Responsibility

Miss Lola Williams, center, discusses the child care series which will begin June 10, with Miss Glenda Moore, left, and Miss Debbie Webb, right, members of the planning committee. Miss Williams will participate in a panel during the first session which will inform teenagers of the responsibilities of caring for children.

A series of classes for teenagers who plan to care for young children will begin June 10 at the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium. The series is open to both boys and girls, according to Mrs. Ruth Reynolds, area home economist and coordinator of the course.

"Boys are particularly needed to care for young boys," she commented. The classes are sponsored by the University Extension Service with the Extension Council of Pettis County, the Sedalia Public Schools and other agencies cooperating.

The series consists of five sessions, June 10, June 17, June 24, July 1 and July 8. They will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

The first session will include a panel discussion on the responsibilities of those who care for children for parents. Members of the panel are Mrs. Roger Garlich, Mrs. R. J.

Lindstrom and Miss Lola Williams.

City fire and police officials will present the second session on accident and fire prevention with assistant chief of police, Charles Knapp and assistant fire chief, Willis Jabas as guest speakers.

Miss Pat Binder, who is in charge of the entire series, will direct a workshop on play materials for the third session, and Mrs. Dianne Draize, R.N., Pettis County Health Nurse, will give the fourth session on "Basic First Aid and Child Care."

At the final session, Dr. Joyce Fielding of State Fair Community College will speak on career opportunities available in child care.

Certificates will be given to all who attend at least four of the five sessions by Bill Burkholder, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

Many Reasons Behind Current Abuse

Fourth in Series

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

"Our earth is degenerate ... children no longer obey their parents."

This plaintive observation was inscribed in stone by an Egyptian priest 6,000 years ago. Every generation since then, parents have likely voiced similar complaints, objecting that youngsters are rude, unappreciative of their parents' contributions, or clucking over their tastes and styles in costumes and music — and hair.

Now parents have a new concern — why should so many youngsters be experimenting with if not adopting drugs that influence the mind?

There are no simple answers — it is a complex phenomenon. Various experts offer a variety of reasons and speculations, and a few suggest there are as many reasons for abusing drugs as there are people abusing them. Similarly, they think, there are just as varied reasons why some people become alcoholics, or stuff themselves with food.

The reasons, or excuses, for drug abuses vary widely ... a form of rebellion ... one manifestation of the uncertain, unsettled adolescent seeking to learn "Who am I?" ... a way of forgetting worries and hurts, and boredom and frustration ... a means to hit back at parents ... a way of experiencing love for others ... a mental and emotional adventure ... a key to escape dismal reality ... curiosity ... pressure from one's peers and the need to go along and to belong and not to be "chicken" ... doubts whether mankind has any future anyhow ... the presence and voices of persuasive evangelists touting the attractions of different drugs...

American society is drug-obsessed. In 1970, physicians and pharmacists turned out more than 225 million prescriptions for drugs that affect the mind — stimulants, tranquilizers, antidepressants, sedatives and others — compared with 167 million in 1965, by one estimate.

Machholz Installed By Jaycees

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — Rich Machholz was installed president of the Jaycees at a banquet Tuesday evening at the Marshall Inn. Also installed were: Jerry Haase, internal vice-president; Bill Green, external vice-president; Leroy Criswell, secretary; Larry Widel, treasurer; and directors, Marion Eastman, Max Sutherland and Leland Horner, immediate past president.

Al Murfin, outgoing president of the Missouri Jaycees, was the installing officer and main speaker for the evening. He congratulated the Jaycees on their accomplishments during their first year and challenged them to continue their leadership training through community service.

Leland Horner, outgoing president, presented certificates of appreciation to K & S Implement Company, Home Lumber Company and Hy-line Chicks for their support of Jaycee activities. A certificate of appreciation was presented to Ken Moore, executive vice-president of the Missouri Jaycees, for his help in organizing the club and serving the group this year.

Spoke awards were given to Bill Green, Larry Askins and Leland Horner. Jaycee of the Month awards went to Larry Askins for December and Marion Eastman for January. A presidential certificate was given to Larry Widel.

Mrs. Marcia Haase presented the Jaycees with a certificate from the Missouri Human Resource Development Corp. in recognition for their work in the Headstart and Commodity Foods programs.

Also present for the ceremonies was Keith Rowland, Sedalia, Region Four vice-president.

NATIVE DIAMONDS
MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP) — In the kimberlite soil at two locations near Murfreesboro, one may find the only diamonds native to North America. The gems generally are of industrial grade, but some are better, including a find by a Dallas, Tex., woman.

Her stone, dubbed the "Star of Arkansas," has been valued at $1 million.

Adults were the main consumers of these chemicals. Drugs are advertised as answers to practically every problem or woe, capable of bringing quick cures. And when parents "have medicine cabinet full of drugs, the kids can make a big thing of that," says one psychologist.

For some young people, the mind-influencing drugs seem to offer "a magical, effortless solution" to major problems of life, says Dr. Henry Brill of Pilgrim State Hospital, West Brentwood, N.Y.

Pressures upon today's youths are enormous. They are caught up in an era of rapid social change which leaves adults bewildered and confused and puzzled as well.

Many youths have grown up in affluence, and the American dream of "giving one's children a better chance" doesn't make great sense to them, for a generation "that rarely imagines a society in which starvation, unemployment, or depression will be major possibilities," says Dr. Kenneth Keniston, Yale University psychologist.

Parents who survived the Great Depression of the 1930s, and World War II and challenges since then, often find this view hard to take or to reconcile. They worked hard for money, security and a better break for their children, who now don't seem to appreciate what had gone before in recent human history, who seemingly emphasize NOW rather than the future. Furthermore, they seem sometimes contemptuous of the Puritan ethic that work is the road to salvation.

Much different is the reason or pressure for youths in slums and ghettos, particularly Negroes, to turn to the escape and "peace" offered by drugs like heroin.

They have little chance for the good life of good education and good jobs and security, and can look upon the society of the middle class white youth as "a far better bargain than malnutrition, rat bites, cold, loneliness and a rejecting hostile society," says Dr. David Gottlieb of Pennsylvania State University. It is astonishing, he says, that more ghetto youths have not sought escape through drugs.

Ann Landers

Reader Speaks On Drug Abuse

Dear Ann Landers: One reads a great deal these days about drug abuse among teen-agers. Why isn't more said about drug abuse among adults? It very nearly cost me my life.

I always had a tendency to obesity. My overeating was mainly compulsive. Last January I became disgusted with myself because I had gotten fat as a pig after my last baby. I went to the local "diet doctor" and he gave me benzedrine pills to curb my appetite. Perhaps under ordinary conditions it would have been all right, but that year was a hideous time for me. I had forced my husband into a separation he didn't want. Our baby was born with a defective heart. The two-year-old began to act up because she felt displaced by the new baby. I fought with our oldest daughter constantly. (I couldn't control my temper.) By May I had lost the weight I had set out to lose but I kept taking the diet pills anyway. (I can't understand why my doctor kept renewing the prescription.) Finally I realized the pills were responsible for the violent outbursts and frequent crying spells. I kept promising myself, "tomorrow I'll stop," but I'd wake up exhausted with too much to do. I'd always think of an excuse to take just a few more pills to get me through the day. When I realized I was hooked I vowed to finish the bottle and not buy more. That didn't work either.

One night I tried to kill myself. Thank God I didn't succeed. That was the turning point. I got some counseling and for the first time I began to understand myself and my relationship to others. To make a long story short, my husband and I are back together. I am happier now than I have been at any time in the last 20 years. In evaluating my troubles and how they began, I realize the blame is more mine than the doctor's. But I still think something should be done about physicians like that. Maybe amphetamines wouldn't have wrecked most people, but for me they were disaster.

Housewives should be told that when they want to lose weight, bennies and dex are not the answer. The pounds are sure to come back after you quit the dope. I am not proud of myself for getting into that syndrome, but I am proud of myself for getting out of it. I am also thankful that luck was on my side. I came within inches of being dead. If you use this letter, sign me — Binghampton Lesson.

Dear Lesson: Here it is. And now a word to everyone who is taking amphetamines, for any reason. Please tear out this column and paste it in your medicine cabinet — as a reminder.

Dear Ann Landers: A recent writer who signed himself "Oklahoma" stated that gasoline, paint thinner and acetone should never be used indoors. He advised the use of kerosene or diesel fuel instead because they are better grease solvents and are non-explosive. This is wrong. Both are explosive.

While kerosene and diesel fuel are safer to use because of their higher flash points, both will burn and explode under the right conditions. If kerosene is applied to a hot engine (shade-tree mechanics often do this) it will give off inflammable vapors which can be ignited at a lower temperature than as-o-line vapors.

I just wanted to correct a misleading statement. — Fire Chief in Houston.

Dear Chief: I am always happy to correct a misleading statement — especially if the statement could lead to an 11-alarm fire. (In Texas it could be 13 — everything is bigger down there!) Thank you for writing.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze And You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. (c) 1971 Publishers-Hall Syndicate

Nixon Greets Hershey

President Nixon greeted former Director of the Selective Service Lt. Gen. Lewis Hershey in the White House Rose Garden Wednesday. Hershey was at the Executive Mansion to attend the awarding of the Medal of Freedom to a White House staff member, William Hopkins, executive clerk of the White House.

K.C.K. Firm Accused Of Polluting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency accused a Kansas City, Kan., firm today of polluting the Kansas River.

Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus served notice on the Santa Fe Land Improvement Co., giving it 180 days to reach a solution satisfactory to the government.

If the problem is not resolved within that time, the EPA may ask the Justice Department to take legal action.

Ruckelshaus said EPA officials would meet informally with company representatives "to discuss the pollution problems and to seek remedial action on a voluntary basis."

He charged the company, which owns and operates a main collection sewer serving the city's Turner Industrial District, was discharging inadequately treated phenols, organic wastes, oil and grease and bacteria into the river.

He said these discharges "lower the quality of the water in the Kansas River in Kansas and the Missouri River in Missouri."

Plan Drug Probe On Vet Addiction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drug addiction among U.S. soldiers and veterans, called "so acute as to constitute an endemic disease," will be investigated in depth by two Senate subcommittees this month.

Pentagon policy in dealing with drug offenders will be explored June 9, and the lack of treatment for addicted veterans discharged as undesirable or for bad conduct will be reviewed at a joint hearing June 15-16.

Noting President Nixon has indicated more attention will be focused on drug abuse in the armed services, Sen. Vance Hartke said Wednesday the Senate probe will concentrate on "the broader based problem affecting those men who have been and will be discharged into the veteran population."

The Indiana Democrat, chairman of the Veterans' Affairs Committee, said the military drug problem "is so acute as to constitute an endemic disease in the veteran community of epidemic proportion."

The Senate Welfare subcommittee on alcoholism and narcotics, headed by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, will initiate the June 9 review and will be joined for the June 15-16 hearing by the Veterans subcommittee on health and hospitals, headed by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

An estimated 30,000 to 45,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam are using hard drugs or narcotics, according to congressional and administration spokesmen.

The Air Force, Army and Navy have begun amnesty programs, permitting individuals to seek treatment for drug problems before they are caught.

Pentagon spokesmen confirm most discharges of drug-addicted personnel have been on undesirable or bad-conduct discharges, frequently for such related offenses as theft.

Nixon's ACTION Plan Is Facing Final Hurdle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's plan to consolidate several volunteer agencies including the Peace Corps and VISTA into a new Action Corps faced its last hurdle in the Senate today.

Under a congressional reorganization bill a Senate vote opposing the executive reorganization was the only way the program could have been kept from going into effect next Tuesday.

The House upheld the administration plan 224-131 last week.

Sen. Harrison B. Williams, D-N.J., sponsor of the resolution against the plan, argued during two hours of debate Wednesday the President's proposal would stifle idealism and fall short of its goal to increase the volunteer spirit of American youth.

Williams was joined by Sens.

Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Fred R. Harris, D-Okl., J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and John V. Tunney, D-Calif.

They argued the Action Corps lacks a clearly defined purpose.

"It is a collection of superficially similar programs linked in reality only by a vague concept of volunteerism," Williams said.

"The Peace Corps and VISTA have different motivational, cultural, training and administrative backgrounds. The essence of VISTA is the culture of poverty in America. The essence of the Peace Corps is living and working with people in the developing nations abroad," he added.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said, however, the Peace Corps and VISTA would not be subsumed in the new agency.

"The President is not submerging them," he argued.

Under Nixon's plan, six programs would be merged immediately into the new agency headed by Peace Corps director Joseph Blatchford. They are Volunteers in Service to America, an arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity; Foster Grandparents and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, now administered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Service Corps of Retired Executives and Active Corps of Executives, administered by the Small Business Administration, and auxiliary and special volunteer programs within the OEO.

Don S. Lamm Park Fitting Recognition

Next Monday the City Council is expected to make a decision on renaming Centennial Park to Don S. Lamm Centennial Park.

The proposal was passed on to the council by the Sedalia Park Board, which unanimously recommended that the change be made.

We support the idea of changing the name of the park, and see it as an appropriate form of recognition of a man who has made many contributions to the civic improvement of Sedalia.

This was especially true during the city's centennial celebration in 1960. It was Don Lamm who, as centennial chairman, spent untold hours—starting more than two years in advance—to insure that Sedalia's 100th birthday would be a week to remember.

The centennial chairman was an especially effective fund raiser, and it was largely this money that made possible the purchase of land for Centennial Park.

Of the nearly $25,000 used to purchase the land, $15,683.78 came from the centennial fund, which was promoted and managed by Lamm as centennial chairman. And that money was what was left over, after all the myriad expenses of the centennial celebration were paid off. The balance of the Centennial Park cost was paid with money from the sale of the city's Center Park.

Indeed, Don Lamm's contributions toward the centennial celebration in virtually all areas, including overseeing the writing of the centennial history, make his name almost synonymous with the event.

But all of this happened almost a dozen years ago, and some memories appear to be a little dim on the subject. But civic pride and dedication should be remembered, as an inspiration to those who carry on today.

A fitting and proper way of remembering Don S. Lamm's contributions would be to rename his most lasting monument in his honor.

Police Break Up Affluent Protest

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — More than 3,500 people were rounded up in mass arrests Thursday evening and thrown into the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The demonstrators, wearing black ties, evening dresses, diamond necklaces and tiaras, had vowed to tie up Washington traffic around the Watergate Apartment complex with their Cadillac and Lincoln Continental chauffeur-driven limousines.

Police chief Jerry Wilson said that he had orders that anyone who participated in the demonstration, which had organized to get our symphony orchestra out of Constitution Hall, would be arrested.

At about 10 o'clock, the first demonstrators started chanting 'WE WANT CULTURE' to which their leaders yelled 'WHEN DO YOU WANT IT?' and they shouted back 'NOW.'

A police captain with a bullhorn said, "Unless you keep your limousines moving you will all be arrested." But the demonstrators refused to heed the warning and traffic was blocked up as far as the State Department. At the signal from the captain, the police immediately moved in and started making mass arrests.

Because of the large number of demonstrators, the police decided to detain all the people at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The demonstrators had been prepared for this and most of them went peacefully, but once inside the detention center they couldn't believe the conditions that they had to put up with. People were jammed in tight in the halls and ante-rooms.

As each new group of demonstrators was brought in, it became obvious that the Kennedy Center did not have the facilities to handle them.

At 11 o'clock there was no gin left, and by 11:30 all the scotch had been drunk and some of the people started to cry.

The only food was a cold buffet and strawberries, and champagne, which had been hastily brought in by the Red Cross for the emergency.

The American Civil Liberties Union protested vigorously that the demonstrators were being detained under cruel and unlivable conditions and demanded that the people being held in the center either be charged or let go. But police said the demonstrators knew what they were getting into when they came out that night, and they felt no obligation to protect them with any speed.

"Most of the people in there," said a police sergeant, "are troublemakers. They came from all over the country and if they want to tie up the traffic in Washington, they're getting what they deserve."

But reporters discovered inside the center that many innocent people had been rounded up in the mass arrests. One couple said, "We were on our way to see 'Love Story' and suddenly we were thrown in a bus and dumped in here."

A photographer said he was just taking pictures of the fireworks when two patrolmen grabbed him and threw him into the brass section of Meyer Davis' orchestra.

A woman, who said she was just walking her dog, found herself sleeping under Peter Duchin's piano. "The only reason I was picked up," she said tearfully, "is because my dog had long hair."

Although Chief Wilson denied it, the strategy behind the arrests was to keep the demonstrators there until 3 o'clock in the morning so that traffic would be running smoothly again.

The police chief set $100 bond for every person over 35 and $40 for those under. The organizers of the demonstration vowed they wouldn't be intimidated and promised to come back in September to tie up traffic again when the Kennedy Center was officially opened. A spot poll the next day revealed that most of the people who lived in Washington believed that the demonstrators who wound up in the Kennedy Center Thursday night had only themselves to blame.

Motorboat Pollution — The Environmental Protection Agency often protects the polluters rather than the environment. Conservationist Livingston Parmele tried to enlist the agency in his fight to end motorboat pollution of lakes and streams. After all, the EPA's own studies show outboards spew up to 30 per cent of their fuel into the water. But EPA's associate general counsel, Robert Zener, wrote Parmele that the Federal Water Pollution Control Act exempts "discharges of oil from properly functioning vessel engines. That, Parmele told us acidly, is exactly the point: no engine throwing off 30 per cent of its fuel can possibly be deemed "properly functioning."

Capp's Conspiracy — Al Capp, the humorist and hard-liner, is claiming his recent indictment in Wisconsin on dirty-old-man charges is part of a plot by the radical left to "get" him. But Lawrence Durning, the district attorney who issued the warrant for Capp's arrest, happens to be a former president of the Conservative Club

(now a chapter of Young Americans For Freedom) at the University of Wisconsin. He worked for Barry Goldwater in 1964 and was a delegate for Richard Nixon at the Republican convention in 1968. Although Capp's conspiracy theory might seem hard to buy, William Buckley, the brilliant conservative commentator, was sufficiently impressed with it to telephone Durning personally to make sure he hadn't been taken in by the Bolsheviks.

FAA Reversal — John Saxman, a dedicated air traffic controller, warned the Federal Aviation Administration 18 months ago of dangerous radar conditions over lower Virginia and upper North Carolina. The FAA did nothing, and six persons were killed last year in a crash caused by the very conditions Saxman had warned against. After we told the story, the FAA fired Saxman — allegedly because he was a "leader" of the air traffic controllers' "sick-in" for better working conditions. The charge that Saxman was a leader was transparent nonsense; he wasn't even an officer of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization. The FAA refused, however, to reverse itself, even in the face of inquiries from Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and from House Commerce Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va. Now, however, a hearing examiner has ruled favorably on Saxman's appeal and the FAA has agreed to let him have his job back.

Cutbacks In Forces A Gamble

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NEA) — What are 300,000 U.S. military men doing in Western Europe 26 years after World War II?

We are all supposed to know much more about this than we did before the Senate heard and defeated the Mike Mansfield proposal to pull 150,000 men out of Europe. But, as we await the promised next debate on the issue, the question is: Do we know more?

Blossat

From Mansfield and other troop-cut supporters, the impression is gained variously that our NATO force is laden with fat, that its presence is merely symbolic (trip-wire to touch off our nuclear response if Russia attacks), that it is there to defend Europe for Europe's sake.

It is easy to dispose of this latter nation. Those who say "let the prospering Europeans defend themselves" simply haven't examined the military power equation. Only we have the might to give Russia pause. And if Europe is not OUR first defense line, why did we fight two world wars at a cost of hundreds of thousands of men?

There is fat in our European force, as elsewhere. But the padding does not come to 150,000 men. Not too long ago some 20,000 were cut from that force, as other thousands have been before. More could be cut — and should be. To go into big numbers, however, is to talk absurdity.

The argument that our NATO force is token, symbol, etc., is not advanced by sophisticated students of defense. For trip-wire purpose, 25,000 would do. An equipped force of 300,000 is intended for real defending.

Some say, yes, but the only practical defending it could do against a huge Soviet onslaught would be with tactical nuclear weapons, of which NATO has some 7,700.

Yet there is a very large doubt whether the NATO armies ever would begin tactical nuclear warfare.

Recently, an expert in defense affairs told me: "We really don't know what tactical nuclear war means." A strong feeling exists that it would grade quickly into The Big One. For one thing, tactical nuclear devices have enormous destructive power. In seeking out combat targets, almost certainly they would devastate some cities. Moreover, their range is great enough to permit them to reach far behind the fighting lines. When does such a weapon become strategic?

One study suggests a tactical nuclear exchange between NATO and the Soviet-Warsaw Pact countries might lead to destruction of 20 per cent of the build-up areas in the combat zones of West Germany, plus the killing of 12 million Germans.

Alain Enthoven, former assistant secretary of defense, is one among many who believe that Moscow has enough tactical nuclear weapons to answer us in kind — and that hence no such exchange is likely.

What does that leave? Just the idea that our forces in Europe, plus those of our NATO allies, are intended to have the capacity to fight a conventional war. Nuclear stalemate wipes out any real alternative.

Many who dabble with the NATO issue believe Western forces are heavily outmanned and outgunned by the Warsaw Pact armies. The recent "debate" on the Mansfield proposal did make clear, for those who listened, that this is not so.

The next time the troop-cut proposal comes up, it should be discussed in its real terms. It has to do with the kind of defense we want to make of Europe, and hence of ourselves.

To bring home 150,000 or more men but keep them ready for quick airlift to the NATO defense line is to cling to the present conventional war strategy. To deactivate returned NATO units could mean putting all our eggs in the nuclear basket. This is the heart of it, and we had better understand it.

Today's Thoughts

Religion that is pure and undefiled, before God and the Father is this: To visit orphans and widows in their affliction, and to keep oneself unstained from the world. — James 1:27.

Religion is the inborn longing of the human soul for God and for companionship with Him. It is as fundamental as life itself, as enduring as the human race. — John D. Rockefeller Jr., philanthropist.

The Chic, Elegant Way to Wait

High fashion for mothers-to-be are shown here for spring and summer. Bosh Johnson, a recent graduate of the Parsons School of Design has not found the design of maternity wear restricting. She designs for a New York boutique and says a maternity designer "simply works in an additional dimension of construction." Shown here, from left to right, are four of "Bosh's" designs. First, a green denim overall jumper over natty knickers and a print top add up to high fashion for fun, for the lady-in-waiting who wants, not just "cover" but practical designs. Next is a summer dress in buttercup yellow. The bodice is stitch-tucked in the front and back, creating an Empire silhouette. Pleasant summer days call for maternity dress with elan. Here a border print is done in a flouncy cotton that combines plum and red on a muslin color ground. And for evening wear is a mauve matte jersey evening dress banded across the bodice and falling gracefully from soft shirrings.

Fashion Tips For The Handicapped

By AP Newsfeatures

Handicapped women, often overlooked by the world of fashion, now are finding available not only fashionable clothes, but styles that are practical and easy to wear.

A new source of fashion and sewing tips for handicapped women has resulted from a "Fashions Design for the Handicapped" contest, co-sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

According to Mrs. Mary Stewart, of the President's Committee, many of the tailoring innovations in the prize-winning garments could easily be adapted to other clothing for the handicapped and for people with temporary disabilities.

Some of these features are hiked hem to compensate for crutch posture, hidden front zipper for ease of dressing, crutch patches which can be replaced when worn, easy-closing Velcro fasteners which amputees can handle independently, the same easy closing plackets in pants leg to facilitate dressing over braces, A-line skirts for freedom of leg movement and use of buttons where practice is needed to develop finger coordination.

Mrs. Stewart emphasized that in addition to providing ease of dressing and freedom of movement, many of the features of the prize-winning clothes de-emphasize a deformity of prostheses.

Top winners in the "Fashion Designs for the Handicapped" contest were clubwomen, Mrs. Robert Martel, of Manchester, N.H., who designed a blouse, skirt and slacks set for an 8-year-old girl suffering from improper balance and lack of coordination; Mrs. Francis Podenski of Edgely, N.D., who made a cape and basic dress for a woman who is a quadruple amputee; Mrs. Robert E. Ankers, of McLean, Va., who created a jumper and jacket for a woman with leg braces and crutches; Mrs. Robert Gagne, of Meriden, Conn., who designed a jacket dress for a 21-year-old woman with a paralyzed left arm and hand; and Mrs. Maurice Matthews, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who made a pants suit for a wheelchair-bound victim of multiple sclerosis.

She Would Like Front 'Stop' Lights on Cars

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns cars. I wish the car manufacturers would put a brake light on the fronts of cars as well as on the backs. When stopping on a busy road to make a turn I cannot tell if the person behind me is going to stop or not. Numerous times I have been almost scared to death thinking someone back of me was going to run right through the rear end of my car. How nice it would be to look in the rear-vision mirror and see a red light show on the car in back, assuring one that the driver has a foot on the brake. — ANN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — My daughter made a lovely afghan and since it has been dry cleaned the edges are not straight. Can anything be done to restore the original shape? — ELEANOR

DEAR POLLY — Before I put my husband's bib overalls in the washer I fold both the back and front to the inside, down to the waistline, and pin together with two or three large safety pins. No more noise in the washer. — WILLIE

DEAR POLLY — For some time I have been using plastic pill bottles with soft snap-on tops to put over the pointed end of my scissors when I carry sewing to my club or to baby-sit. This is not only a safety device but saves the scissors. — JUANITA

DEAR GIRLS — I am sure Juanita forgot to tell us to make a slit in the bottle lid to slip the scissors through as only short embroidery scissors would go all the way down into such a bottle. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — While combing and styling a new wig the stand kept falling over and moving away from me. Finally I thought of securing it with masking tape. I taped the stand to a heavy catalogue and cut the tape long enough to reach across the width of the catalogue and lap over the edges of the pages. This worked just great, as I could easily turn the stand around as needed and it sat very sturdy while I worked. I like using masking tape as it can be removed without damage to what-ever it is sticking to. — ALVA M. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Princess Opens Jewelry Shop

PARIS (AP) — The smallest shop in Paris is where a princess keeps her jewels. But the jewels are for sale and the Princess Claude de Broglie is the jeweler.

"In principle, a princess twiddles her thumbs all day and goes out in the evening, but not in the 20th century. Besides, I wasn't always a princess," says this contemporary aristocrat wearing pants, sweater and the latest unisex haircut.

Two years ago, she opened the boutique—"the size of a strongbox"—on the Rue de l'Ecluse. Across the street is her first shop, which specializes in unique frames, pedestals and showcases for objets d'art, including a Japanese mask brought in by Peter O'Toole. She has just finished a monstrous mirror, "so big I don't know how big it is," to go beside the bathtub in Omar Sharif's Paris apartment.

While she counts the Baronne Alain de Rothschild and the Princess d'Ysenburg among her jewelry aficionados, "I don't design for celebrities," the princess says emphatically. "What if aristocrats wear my jewels? They read Vogue like everyone else."

To preserve as much incognito as possible, the shop is called "Claude de Muzac," a name borrowed from one of her mother's properties. Outside is a polyester replica of an amonite—her trademark, a black stone that could pass for a snail shell—blown up as large as a cartwheel.

Once a client squeezes inside the cube, coated with brown carpet on every surface, and lowers herself onto a carpet pouf, the princess will reveal a cache of exotic geometric jewels in delicate rainbow colors, all stashed away in hidden drawers.

There are opal starfish, slave bracelets, ivory watches, gold wicker earrings, clusters of stones that perch in the hair and even agate cufflinks for "slightly special" men.

"It's too expensive to work with real stones, so I experiment with pauper's stones," says the princess, who adores unprecedented mixtures of lapis lazuli, turquoise, coral, amethyst, opal and apache tears. Under her strict supervision, two artisans in a workshop place the semi-precious stones on a setting of white, gray or yellow gold.

The prices, though, are not for paupers, and start at $85 for a simple ring and climb to over $1,000 for a tier-upon-tier formal necklace.

One of her favorite designs is a broad hammered gold dog collar, trailing a gold chain leash with a padlock at the end.

The ring for lovers, which sometimes turns into a wedding band, is called "embrace" and is made of two rows of interlocking gold teeth. "All people who love each other buy one. It's very strange," says the princess. Girls who insist on an expensive engagement ring often present her with the sapphire or diamond of their choice.

For the even more artistically-inclined, the princess, who has a background in design and store display, creates jewelry sculptures, both pin and sculpture-size. The smaller version has a shell for head, a crystal body and tourmaline feet; the larger might be a daring conglomeration of silver tubes, gold vermeil with a rock crystal bellybutton and a hunk of petrified wood for a hat.

"They represent what you want," says the princess, who believes in personal interpretation. "For me, they are people."

In her free time, she relaxes with her husband, Guy de Broglie, whose title moved from Italy to France in 1915, and two sons. They pay occasional visits to their ancestral chateau "which luckily belongs to my husband's elder brother," says the princess with a shrug of relief. "It's enormous and costs a fortune to support."

The prince, a real estate man, takes his wife's commercial endeavors with equanimity. "My husband would hate me to do nothing," says the princess, who splutters violently at the thought of being liberated.

"Women have been this way through all time and should stay that way," she exclaims. "Anyway, we can't do without men," she adds.

Princess and Her Jewels

Princess de Broglie is pictured in her jewelry shop on Paris' Left Bank. She designs much of the jewelry herself, but maintains that the jewelry isn't designed for celebrities.

Junior Women's Club Begins Family Search

The Cosmopolitan Junior Women's Club MFWC has joined the General Federation of Women's Clubs in sponsoring the 1971 All-American Family Search. Other national sponsors include nationwide businesses.

In association with the Department of the Treasury, the contest seeks to honor the all-American family. A winner will be selected from each state and the 50 state winners will be flown to Florida in August to compete in the national contest.

Judging for the state title is based on entries submitted by the families which includes information about the family and their activities. The contest is open to families permanently residing in the U.S. in which either the husband or wife is a U.S. citizen and who have one or more unmarried children.

Entry blanks are available from Mrs. Donald Magathan, 827-0651 or other members of the Cosmopolitan Junior Women's Club.

Deadline for entries is June 25 and state winners will be announced between July 5-11.

The leader...any way you look at it.

Cadillac for 1971. It could well be your best car buy, any way you look at it.

Styling. It's a carefully created combination of styling continuity and contemporary flair.

Comfort. A longer wheelbase and new suspension system mean an even smoother ride.

Performance. The proven 472-cubic-inch V-8 is amazingly responsive—on regular gasoline or no-lead and low-lead fuels.

Luxury. In the incredible quietness inside, in the beautiful standard appointments and in the many features you can order.

Choice. The first Cadillac luxury you enjoy. There are nine models from which to choose.

Value. A Cadillac traditionally returns a larger portion of original investment than any other car built in the land. Cadillac is the leader—any way you look at it. And now is the time to look at it—at your authorized Cadillac dealer's showroom.

Cadillac 1971

Cadillac is doing something about traffic safety, but some things only you can do. You might be surprised by the scope of our involvement in advancing the cause of safety.

Did you know, for instance, that Cadillac was the first to install safety glass in its cars? And introduced the triple braking system?

Today you can see evidence of the magnitude of our concern. The 1971 Cadillac incorporates a host of recent safety developments. Including an energy absorbing steering column. Padded instrument panel. Seat belts for all passenger positions. Side-Guard steel beams in the doors.

And the work goes on. But all our efforts will not be enough, unless you do your share.

Here are five ways you can help. 1. Always use your seat and shoulder belts. 2. Make sure your car is in good running order. 3. Never drive when you're tired or under the influence of alcohol. 4. Support driver training and uniform traffic codes and enforcement. 5. Drive defensively. Please. Will you to your part?

The View Other Horses May Get

Purse Finder To Challenge Canonero II

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in 1968 Stagedoor Johnny won his first race about a month before he won the Belmont Stakes. Saturday, Purse Finder will try for a similar achievement at the loss of the Triple Crown for Canonero II.

"He is getting better every day," Trainer Jimmy Conway said Wednesday of Purse Finder, who won the first race of his 8-race career May 12, just three days before Canonero II added the Preakness victory to his win in the Kentucky Derby.

The race that shot Purse Finder, owned by Anthony Imbesi, into the Belmont was last Friday's Peter Pan Purse in which he came from off the pace to smash Mrs. Taylor Hardin's Solo Mio, another Belmont candidate, by nine lengths at the end of 1 1/4 miles.

Blinkers have helped turn the Maribeu colt into a winner, and although he might not have the racing experience of some of his Belmont rivals, Conway is optimistic about his chances in the $125,000-added 14 mile classic.

Canonero II and probably eight other 3-year-olds will be entered Friday morning for the Belmont, which is scheduled to go off at 5:35 p.m. EDT Saturday. Television coverage will be from 5-6 p.m. and radio coverage from 5:25-5:45 p.m., both by CBS.

Trainer Juan Arias and jockey Gustavo Avila both expressed satisfaction Wednesday after Canonero II worked 3/4 mile on the Belmont main track in 1:04. Although this is generally considered a slow move, it was faster than Canonero II's final work out at the same distance for the Derby and the Preakness.

Besides Purse Finder and Solo Mio, Canonero II's other likely opponents in his bid to become racing's ninth Triple Crown winner and first since Citation in 1948 are the Johnny Campo-trained pair of Neil Hellman's Good Behaving and Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French, Mr. & Mrs. Harry Lungers' Salem, William A. Levitt's Bold Reason, Mrs. Ethyl D. Jacobs' Epic Journey and Tartan Stable's Highbinder.

Good Behaving, a triple stakes winner who missed the Derby and the Preakness, was supplemented for the Belmont Wednesday for $5,000. He will be the only supplemental nominee in the race.

Canonero May Be Sold

NEW YORK (AP) — Canonero II is on the market—his owner says—and he is ready—a doctor says—two days away from the Belmont Stakes and his bid for racing's Triple Crown.

"A decision will not be announced until after the Belmont Stakes," said Pedro Baptista, who owns Canonero II but races him in the name of Edgar Caibett, his son-in-law.

"But win or lose Canonero will be sold after the Belmont. This, provided the price and conditions are those we seek."

A victory in the 1 1/2-mile Belmont Stakes Saturday at Belmont Park would make Canonero II the first winner since Citation in 1948 to win thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown—the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont. Canonero II would be the ninth to achieve the feat.

"He'll be in the race," said Dr. William O. Reed, one of the veterinarians who has looked after the Kentucky-bred colt since his arrival here. "Don't worry about that."

Canonero II has been inflicted with a skin rash and an infected right hind foot, but Reed said the rash has all but disappeared and the foot infection is responding to treatment.

Bout Set July 26

Ali, Ellis Seeking Comeback Trails

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm out to get Joe!" Muhammad Ali ranted.

Jimmy Ellis is out to get him, too—but first he wants to get rid of his image as an underdog.

Joe Frazier, heavyweight champion of the world, is the man they're after, the only man to demolish each of their hopes for a championship.

Ali and Ellis took a step on their comeback trails Wednesday, signing for a scheduled 12-round fight July 26 at the Houston Astrodome. The winner will be a likely candidate for another title shot at Frazier.

The careers of the two Louisville, Ky., fighters have paralleled each other for years, since they fought as amateurs, but Ellis spent most of the time in Ali's shadow.

He was the sparring partner when Ali took the championship from Sonny Liston in 1964 and remained in the background role until Ali was stripped of the title in 1967 for refusing military induction.

Ellis then came into his own and, with Ali serving as an occasional sparring partner, won the World Boxing Association crown.

But Frazier was recognized as the champion by New York and several other states. And on Feb. 16, 1970, he got the rest of it with a fifth-round knockout of Ellis in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Then it was Ali's turn, returning after a 3 1/2-year absence and knockout victories over Jerry Quarry and Oscar Bonavena. But he failed against Frazier, losing in 15 rounds last March 8, also at the Garden.

"It don't make you feel good to be underestimated," Ellis says of his years as Ali's training mate. "Everybody talks about how he lost something in that 3 1/2-year layoff. Hell, I was out for 17 months and that didn't do me no good."

Since then, Ellis, ranked No. 7, has won three in a row, beating Roberto Davila, Irish Tony Doyle and Canadian champion George Chuvalo. He owns a 30-6 record. Ali, at 29 two years younger than Ellis, is (31-1) ranked No. 1.

While Ellis sat quietly, seemingly amused by the show-boating of his longtime friend, Ali shouted, taunted and repeatedly slapped a fist into an open palm, trying to look fierce but occasionally smothering a grin.

"O! Jimmy, he was with me when I was coming up, he was with me when I was champion, then all of a sudden when they took the title away from me Jimmy started going around bad-mouthing me and saying how he could beat me and all that."

Seek Second Title

USC Youth Aids Trojans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How can the University of Southern California baseball team, with almost the entire team back from last year, be called one of the youngest in the school's history? Easy.

Last year, the Trojans won the national collegiate baseball championship with an experienced club which contained a large number of seniors and a large number of nonplaying freshmen. The freshmen all went to the college world series. And almost all are back—as veterans on a title winning team.

USC is to take on Seton Hall, champion of the NCAA's District 2, on June 12 in Omaha, Neb., to start the college world series. The USC lineup for that game will contain one senior.

At first base will be sophomore Daryl Arenstein, hitting .329. At second will be Mike Ball, .282 and at shortstop is sensational freshman George Ambrow, .317. The third baseman is junior Jeff Port, .280. The only senior who figures to start is catcher Craig Perkins, batting .309.

Freshman Fred Lynn, batting .327, junior Tim Steele, .324, and junior Gordon Carter, .286, constitute the top three outfielders. Others who figure to see duty in the field are Jeff Pedersen, a junior, who's hitting .294, and senior Frank Alfano, a regular last year who is having a hard time finding a starting job. He's hitting .243.

The team batting average is .290.

USC is 39-10 this season under NCAA coach of the year Rod Dedeaux and the pitching has been the key.

Junior Mark Sogge is 12-1 followed by senior Steve Busby, 10-1, junior Greg Widman, 8-2, and sophomore Eric Raich, a former football player, 7-3. The team's earned run average is a sparkling 2.80.

USC has won a record six national collegiate baseball titles, all under Dedeaux, and has a baseball playoff record of 42 victories, 17 defeats in 13 appearances.

Milwaukee Bucks Get Henry Smith

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association announced Wednesday the signing of their fourth-round draft choice, of Henry Smith, a 6-foot-7 forward.

Smith, team captain of the last two seasons, averaged 22.3 points and 9.4 rebounds in leading Missouri to a 17-9 record last season.

The NBA champion Bucks now have six draft choices under contract.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Veale, at 35 a bachelor, says that for him playing baseball and being married wouldn't mix.

"Look around you," the Pittsburgh Pirate left-hander said. "I compliment any woman who is a ball player's wife. Family is a full-time occupation."

Veale's occupation these days is as different for him as his views on marriage and the family.

He works in the bullpen, not by choice, but by order. He proved he's making it work by pitching the final three innings against St. Louis Wednesday night and shutting out the National League East leaders. The Pirates won 10-1.

Veale has been in only eight games this season and now has worked just 10 innings. He picked up his first save against the Cardinals and has a 1-0 record.

Veale entered the game in the seventh. The score was 4-1 none out and two men on base as the result of two walks given up by Jim Nelson who relieved Luke Walker.

Veale got the next three men in order and retired the side in the eighth.

In the ninth, the Cardinals got two singles and Veale again got Brock on a third strike to end the game.

The Pirate pitching string of 35 scoreless innings was stopped in the sixth when the Cardinals scored their only run off Luke Walker, 2-6.

But it's a combination of superb pitching and an awesome batting attack that has now carried the Pirates to within a half game of the Cardinals.

In the last five games, the Pirates have scored 44 runs to their opponents' five. In the last four games the difference is 35-1.

The Pirates banged five hits in succession off Reggie Cleveland, 5-3, in the fourth, plus a sacrifice fly for four runs. They added three more in the seventh and three in the eighth.

A lot of fish stories cross this desk during the summer—some good—others not so good.

But a recent story about Bob Barker, Route 3, is both humorous and upsetting.

The story, related by a local friend, tells of what a good fisherman Barker claims to be.

But it seems that it may not be Barker who is the better fisherman in the household.

Recently, his young son, Ronnie, latched on to a six and one-half pound lunker trout at Bennett Springs State Park. But his father had very little to show for his own efforts.

But the crowning blow came a week later when Barker's wife, Jeanette, latched on to a lunker of her own at Bennett Springs.

Once again father Barker had little to show for his efforts. And to top everything off, Barker, still talking a good fish story, has yet to catch a lunker out of Bennett Springs. Maybe some lessons from son, Ronnie and wife Jeanette, might be in order.

The Kansas City Royals' front office is making a strong push to get second baseman Cookie Rojas elected to the 1971 American League All-Star team.

Although completely overlooked by officials of the Gillette Razor Co., who sponsors the balloting, when the names were placed on the voting forms, Rojas has certainly proved his worth with the Royals so far this season.

He currently is the American League's third-leading hitter batting at a .320 clip through Tuesday's third and final game in the Boston Red Sox series.

Rojas has collected 56 hits in his 175 trips to the plate this year.

His .320 mark makes him not only the league's third-leading hitter, but it also establishes him as the top average hitter in the flock of the AL's second basemen.

His nearest competition in that department is Dave Johnson of the Baltimore Orioles, who was the starting second baseman last year in the All-Star game. Johnson is currently hitting around the .285 mark.

Dick McAuliffe of Detroit is the lowest hitting second baseman in the league with an average of .189.

However, Rojas' strong point through the first 46 games the Royals have played this year has not been strictly with the bat. Rather, his strongest suit has been in the field, where he teams with Fred Patek to make up one of the sharpest double play combinations in the major leagues.

Rojas was selected in 1965 as a member of the National League All-Star team, when he was with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Kansas City fans, and those who know about Rojas' ability both with the bat and in the infield will have to write his name in on the bottom lines of this year's all-star ballot — thanks to the Gillette Co. oversight of Rojas' talent.

Dave Hill Put on Probation

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — It was a subdued Dave Hill, burdened with a one-year probation and facing an uncertain playing career, who set out today in the first round of the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

"I'm tired of being the bad guy in the black hat," quipped the volatile Hill. "This week I'm wearing a white hat. Rode up on a white charger and I've got him parked right outside."

The 34-year-old Hill was slapped with the probation for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer" in his second round of the Colonial National Invitation Tournament in Fort Worth, Tex. two weeks ago.

Hill, playing poorly that day, threw a ball out of a sand trap on the 18th hole and purposely signed an incorrect scorecard. He was disqualified on the spot and later fined $500.

Hill, the storm center of several major controversies in recent years, paid the fine and followed up with a $1 million damage suit against the Tournament Players Division and the Professional Golfers Association. The suit, the first of its kind against the two golf groups, is pending in federal district court in Memphis, Tenn.

The suit, among other things, charged the PGA and the TPD with violation of Hill's civil rights, violation of his right of free speech and violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The suspension was handed down by the Policy Board of the Tournament Players Division and does not prohibit Hill from playing.

O's Take Lead In AL's East Division

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Those battling Birds from Baltimore have come home to roost — without throwing a single punch.

The Orioles pecked their way to a 3-2 12-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night and regained first place in the American League East.

No beanballs were unleashed and no fans were pummeled—in contrast to the Orioles' Memorial Day donnybrook at Chicago. The world champions merely dazzled the White Sox with their footwork this time around.

Paul Blair scored the winning run on a bases-loaded wild pitch by Terry Forster in the 12th—after dodging a tag by third baseman Bill Melton to reach third on Dave Johnson's one-out grounder.

Brooks Robinson had tied the game with a two-run single in the ninth—after Merv Rettenmund kept the rally going by beating out a slow roller to Melton.

The victory, coupled with Boston's 6-1 loss to the New York Yankees, sent Baltimore into the division lead for the first time since April 29—with a margin of four percentage points over the skidding Red Sox.

Elsewhere in the AL, Detroit nipped Minnesota 5-4; California edged Washington 2-1 in a rain-shortened game and Cleveland topped Milwaukee 4-2. Kansas City and Oakland were not scheduled.

Tom Bradley, Chicago's young pitching star, stymied the Orioles on three hits until the ninth, when Dave Johnson cracked a leadoff single. He took second on a balk, before Bradley walked Frank Robinson and gave up Rettenmund's infield hit, filling the bases.

Brooks Robinson then knotted it 2-2 with single to left.

In the 12th, Vicente Romo walked Blair, batting for reliever Dick Hall, on four pitches. Don Buford sacrificed and Johnson bounced to Melton, who went for the sidestepping Blair and missed the tag. The White Sox protested that Blair had left the baseline and Coach Joe Lonnett was ejected from the game.

Forster then came out of the White Sox bullpen, walked Boog Powell to fill the bases and tossed the tie-breaking wild pitch.

Bobby Murcer hit his ninth and 10th home runs of the season as the Yankees routed previously-unbeaten Sonny Siebert and handed Boston its fifth straight setback behind the six-pitching of Stan Bahnsen.

Siebert, who had won 11 in a row—including nine this season—left for a pinch-hitter in the sixth inning trailing 4-0.

Horace Clarke drilled two singles and a triple, stole two bases, scored one run and knocked in a pair for the Yanks.

The Tigers built a 5-1 lead and then withstood a three-run Minnesota rally in the eighth to climb within 2½ games of the East Division lead.

Fred Scherman relieved winner Joe Coleman and snuffed out the eighth inning rally. Dick McAuliffe homered for the Tigers.

Clyde Wright checked Washington on four hits and drove in the deciding run with a second inning single off Denny McLain as the Angels ended a four-game tailspin in a game halted by rain in the top of the eighth. McLain, 4-9, has lost four in a row and six of his last seven starts.

Cleveland's Sam McDowell won his fourth straight for a 5-5 mark, but needed ninth inning relief help as the Indians beat Milwaukee with a flurry of three unearned runs in the third.

Rain Stops BJ Teams in Area; Jeff City Wins

The Jefferson City-Tipton game was the only contest that was able to be played Wednesday night in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson Pre-Season Tournament, as heavy rains in the area forced postponement of the other two contests.

The Sedalia-Marshall game, as well as the Columbia-Centralia contest were both rained out.

The latter two teams are slated to see action tonight, while the Sedalia-Marshall game has still not been rescheduled.

The locals were scheduled to play in Liberty Park Stadium, but a Senior Babe Ruth rainout contest is on tap there tonight.

Jefferson City eliminated Tipton from the tourney, 16-6, in Wednesday night's only action.

Epsom Derby Won By American Colt

EPSOM DOWNS, England (AP) — In this ecumenical age of common market cordiality, it seemed only right and proper that an American colt, the favored Mill Reef, should win the 192nd running of the Derby Stakes, followed by two French-bred contenders and an immigrant from Ireland.

In a rare day in June, unsullied by rain or the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home," Pittsburgh millionaire Paul Mellon's little bay romped uphill to payday Wednesday in the presence of Queen Elizabeth II and 300,000 of her loyal subjects, including assorted gypsies, knife throwers, Chelsea birds in hot pants and bra-less net blouses and florid-faced dockers come by the pub-load in chartered buses.

The Derby—admission free—is probably the world's most democratic horse race, despite the upper class pronunciation that rhymes it with "Parthree" and separates it from its Kentucky cousin, which in most off-track betting circles is now pronounced day-bee.

On a horseshoe shaped mile-and-a-half turf course, dotted in the distance with the turrets and towers of eight mental asylums, British jockey Geoff

Lewis literally steered Mill Reef up hill and down dale past 20 other incipient three-year olds.

In the thrilling cavalry charge for the Derby gold cup, Britain's biggest racing pot at $147,900, the American son of Never Bend crossed the line two lengths ahead of the French-reared Linden Tree, which had led most of the way.

Two and a half lengths further came Irish Ball, also a French entry despite the name, followed by Lompardo, trained on the soggy plains west of Dublin.

Epsom Derby Winner

Mill Reef, winner of the 192nd running of the Epsom Derby, Wednesday, in Epsom, England, is led in after the race by American owner Paul Mellon, with crack English jockey Geoff Lewis in the saddle. (UPI)

Brave's Skid Ends On King's Homer

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Atlanta Braves can expect a bill in the mail one of these days from the New York Mets for one baseball bat, Dave Marshall model.

They will pay for the wood because Hal King has fallen in love with it and because it gave the Braves a 3-1 victory over Houston Astros Wednesday night. Victories have been few and far between for the Braves lately, so this one will be worth the price of Marshall's bat.

King's two-run homer, with Marshall's bat, broke a seventh inning tie for the Braves and ended Atlanta's losing streak at five games.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, Pittsburgh pounded St. Louis 10-1. New York topped San Francisco 5-2. Chicago swept a doubleheader from Cincinnati 6-3 and 4-1. San Diego blanked Philadelphia 6-0 and Los Angeles battered Montreal 7-1.

King's romance with Marshall's bat began 10 days ago when the Braves were in New York.

"It was just laying there, so I picked it up and felt it," said

King. "I liked it and since the Mets left it there on the rack, I took it."

The borrowed ... or rather, appropriated ... bat made good contact for King twice. The first time Houston's Cesar Cedeño, who made three outstanding catches in the game, robbed him of a homer by leaning over the center field fence to spear his drive. The second shot in the seventh produced one of the longest homers ever hit in Atlanta, a towering drive that hit the facade of the club level in right field.

The Mets could afford to be generous with their spare bats. They got enough late hitting to overcome a 2-0 deficit and beat San Francisco and longtime nemesis Juan Marichal. It was only Marichal's fourth loss in 27 lifetime decisions against New York.

Rookie Charlie Williams earned the victory with five shutout innings of relief. Art Shamsky poled a homer and Dave Marshall, with one of his bats missing, was retired as a pinch hitter, extending his hitless string to 21 consecutive at bats.

Nate Colbert's three-run homer and a solo shot by Ivan Murrell moved San Diego past Philadelphia as rookie Steve Arlin fired a five-hitter.

Both benches emptied twice in the late innings as first San Diego's Clarence Gaston and then Philadelphia's Don Money were brushed back by close pitches. But no punches were thrown either time.

Dave Cash drilled a single, double and triple, leading Pittsburgh's rout of St. Louis.

Heated Argument

Cleveland coach John Lipon (4) blocked Indians' catcher Ted Uhleander (4) away from plate umpire Larry McCoy (4) as Uhleander argues after being called out trying to score from third base on a wild pitch during the Cleveland-Milwaukee game, Wednesday in Milwaukee. The Indians defeated the Brewers, 4-2. (UPI)

Graham Testifies At Grid Hearing

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Otto Graham, former head coach of the Washington Redskins, says he thinks the National Football League will emerge unscathed from the current federal grand jury investigation into NFL operations.

"I have faith in our judicial system," said Graham after appearing Wednesday before the grand jury here.

He confirmed what some other witnesses have told newsmen, that the grand jury is focusing on charges of blackballing by certain players.

But Graham said he knew of no blackballing or racial discrimination in the NFL.

Graham, former star quarterback for the Cleveland Browns, currently is athletic director at the Coast Guard Academy, where he was head football coach from 1959 to 1965. He left the academy in 1965 to go to the Redskins, where he was head coach for three years.

Graham said he prepared for his grand jury appearance by reading Johnny Sample's "Confessions of a Dirty Ballplayer."

Sample and Graham had run-ins during the 1957 college all-star game, when Sample was a player and Graham coached the squad, and also during the 1969 all-star game, when Sample was with the New York Jets.

Sample testified previously before the grand jury, and Graham said Sample's name was one of several that came up during the testimony.

Also testifying Wednesday was Al Davis, general manager of the Oakland Raiders who served briefly as commissioner of the American Football League prior to its merger with the NFL.

Davis, 41, declined to discuss his testimony but said he was impressed by the sincerity and interest in pro football demonstrated by members of the jury.

Royals Lose, 3-0; Lou Piniella Back

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — The Kansas City Royals dropped an exhibition game to their Class AA club here Wednesday night, 3-0.

Lou Piniella, Kansas City's regular left fielder who has been on the disabled list since May 5, got back in action during the game.

He went hitless in three trips to the plate, but was pleased with his performance saying after the game, "... my legs feel good, my weight is down and my arm is strong. I'm ready to help this club anytime it needs me. All I need is to hit more."

"Duck soup," chortled B. "This play was old when I first used it for R. F. Foster in 1920." South had won the club lead with the ace and lost the trump finesse to B at trick two.

B followed up his remark by leading the deuce of spades. West's nine forced out one of dummy's honors. Later on, when West gained the lead with a club, he was able to give B two spade tricks.

B's play was one that any really good player might have made. South was marked with both the ace and king of diamonds for his bids and, if he also held the jack of spades, there would be no defense possible.

Z, who had arrived too late to be remarked to B, "If I had been declarer, I would have played the nine of clubs, not the ace, on the first trick. Your partner would have read your four-spot as a come-on and probably continued the suit. Whereupon, I would have romped home with my contract."

"I guess I would have done just that," said West. "I wonder what A would have done at trick two if he had been defending with B."

"A would probably have continued clubs, just as you would have."

You won't find the play Z suggested in any of the old columns. The reason Z is so tough is because he keeps finding new tricks to add to the ones he learned when he played auction.

Leaders Seeking Limits On Draft Extension Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders are moving toward possible action to limit debate on the draft extension bill unless voluntary time limitations can be worked out on all pending amendments.

Leadership sources report a petition calling for a talk curb is being circulated and could be filed Friday following votes on ending the draft and limiting its extension to one year.

If the petition is filed, the Senate will vote next Tuesday on limiting debate on the remainder of the bill, including amendments yet to be considered.

These include the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to cut off all funds for U.S. operations in Indochina Dec. 31, and a variety of proposals dealing with the draft law itself.

Both sides agree privately a first effort to get the two-thirds needed for a debate limitation probably would fail, but a second bid later in the week might succeed.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., sponsor of the volunteer force proposal due for the first vote Friday, said during debate Wednesday he has 10 other amendments ready in the likely event that one fails.

"If it takes until December to consider the amendments," Hatfield said, "I am ready to fight the battle until December."

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who has promised to filibuster to prevent passage of the draft bill by the June 30 expiration of the present act, said he is willing to agree to a reasonable time limitation on debate but none has been offered.

An aide to Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., co-sponsor of the Vietnam cutoff, said McGovern-Hatfield forces have told the leadership they would agree to about one week's debate on their amendment.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, however, said he thinks the debate could be even shorter since the measure was discussed last year before the Senate rejected it 55 to 39. Supporters say they didn't have enough time for proper debate last year.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee and the draft bill's floor manager, and Republican Leader Hugh Scott have said they will seek to cut off debate to assure enactment of the bill by June 30.

Draft authorities have said they would be able to keep manpower flowing to the military after June 30 if necessary by calling previously deferred men, including college students.

Cholera Epidemic Is Plaguing India

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — The health director of West Bengal State reports that more than 1,000 East Pakistani refugees have died in a cholera epidemic that broke out near Calcutta three weeks ago.

"The situation has gone completely out of our control," Dr. Hiralal Saha said in an interview Wednesday.

He said the figure of 1,000 dead was a conservative estimate based on hospital records. He said that while many refugees went to camps in India, many others took shelter under roadside trees and deaths among them went unreported.

The disease broke out in the Nadia district, a border area about 60 miles northeast of Calcutta and according to Dr. Saha "had since spread like wildfire."

"On Monday there were about 4,000 refugees in hospitals near the Nadia refugee camps. Today—Wednesday—there are more than 10,000," he said.

Dr. Saha attributed the increasing death toll to lack of proper medical facilities.

Another factor, he said, was the unusually high flow of refugees.

"While the government expected about two million refugees," he added, "the figure has nearly doubled."

According to Indian government estimates, more than 3.5 million refugees have arrived in West Bengal State alone since civil strife broke out in East Pakistan March 25. More than 200,000 poured in Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—SEATO—has asked its cholera research laboratory in Dacca, East Pakistan, to investigate what assistance it can give to help put down the cholera outbreak.

A SEATO spokesman in Bangkok said they were making inquiries but were having difficulty contacting the laboratory in East Pakistan.

The SEATO laboratory, after 10 years of research, recently announced what amounts to a 24-hour cure for cholera.

SEATO experts say the new, low-cost method of treatment can be administered by untrained personnel and has proved 100 per cent effective in test treatment of 1,000 East Pakistanis with proven cholera.

Evangel College Grant Is Awarded

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A grant of $100,000 has been awarded to Evangel College at Springfield and School of the Ozarks at Point Lookout, Mo.

Officials said the grant is from the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It is for a number of cooperative programs including institutional research, data processing, and faculty travel expenses for various seminars and programs.

American Casualties Increase

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported 48 Americans battle deaths in its weekly casualty summary today, the highest toll in four weeks.

The total included most of the 30 U.S. soldiers killed in three North Vietnamese shelling attacks May 21 against American bases in the northern part of the country. These attacks included the rocketing of Fire Base Charlie 2 in which 29 soldiers were killed and 33 wounded.

Although these casualties occurred two weeks ago, most of them had been omitted from last week's summary because of Army reporting delays and the time needed to make positive identification and notify next of kin. Today's summary covers a seven-day period up to midnight Saturday.

The reported death toll was the highest weekly count since the week ending May 1, when 68 combat deaths were reported.

The command's summary listed 229 U.S. wounded last week, a sharp increase over the 92 reported for the previous week but about the same level as in the first two weeks of May.

A command spokesman said 16 American servicemen died last week from nonhostile causes such as accidents and illness, compared with 11 in the previous week.

The latest figures raised American casualties in the war since Jan. 1, 1961, to 45,231 killed, 299,663 wounded and 9,564 deaths from nonhostile causes.

The South Vietnamese command reported 452 Saigon troops killed and 1,171 wounded last week, or about the same level as the previous week when 476 were reported killed and 1,015 wounded.

The figures for last week brought to 128,019 killed and 277,787 wounded the announced South Vietnamese casualties for the war since the start of 1960.

The allied commands reported 1,866 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week, a drop from the previous weeks claim of 3,049 enemy killed. The allies now claim 748,201 enemy troops killed in the war.

Meter Thief 'Guilty'

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Ray Phippen, 30, of Wakarusa, Kan., pleaded guilty to eight counts of petty larceny Wednesday in connection with parking meter thefts which have cost Wichita an estimated $7,000.

Phippen was sentenced by Municipal Court Judge James Beasley to three months at the city prison farm on each count for a total of two years.

Phippen was arrested early Tuesday. City Treasurer Ralph Klose reported that revenue from parking meters during April was almost $3,000 less than April of 1970. And, during the 14-day reporting period in May, $1,500 less was collected than in the same period a year ago. The total loss, he said, may have been as much as $7,000.

Phippen was arrested about 4 a.m. Tuesday after a citizen reported to police a man was making collections from downtown meters.

Detectives said they recovered two homemade keys which opened the meters. One makeshift key, according to a city employee, "works better in the meter than the ones we have."

Explosion Is Fatal To Springfield Man

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Burns suffered in an explosion and fire Tuesday night resulted in the death Wednesday night of Olin Lafferty, 39, of Springfield.

Police said Lafferty was checking a laundromat for a relative who owned the business. Officers said Lafferty told them there had been some vandalism at the building.

The explosion occurred shortly before midnight. The cause has not been finally determined.

'Broadman Commentary' Gains Baptists' Review

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A controversy over a volume of the "Broadman Bible Commentary" was expected to occupy most of the attention of more than 14,000 delegates at Thursday's concluding session of the Southern Baptist Convention's (SBC) annual meeting.

A year ago the 11.6 million-member SBC voted 5,394-2,170 to withdraw the commentary volume on the books of Genesis and Exodus and rewrite it with "due consideration to the conservative point of view."

The Rev. Kenneth R. Barnett, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church of Lawton, Okla., charged Wednesday the SBC's publisher, the Sunday School Board, had not heeded the instructions of the convention.

Convention President Carl Bates of Charlotte, N.C., said he would ask members of the Sunday School Board to report Thursday on what progress had been made toward revision. Also on the concluding agenda were proposed resolutions dealing with religious liberty, voluntary prayer, world peace, public funds and religious education, school integration and prejudice.

The "Broadman Bible Commentary" is a 12-volume analysis and interpretative work. It is a highly theological work intended for use by ministers, students and scholars.

The name "Broadman" is the publishing trademark of the convention. At issue in the controversy is Volume 1 of the commentary, written by G. Henton Davies, principal of Regent's Park College of Oxford, England, and Roy D. Honeycutt of Kansas City, Mo.

One of the main objections to the work is its interpretation of the story of Abraham's offering his son, Isaac, as a sacrifice to God as told in chapter 22 of Genesis.

Convention spokesmen said Davies takes the view that God did not order Abraham to kill his own son and concludes that "Abraham's conviction that his son must be sacrificed is the climax of the psychology of his life."

The Rev. Gwinn Turner, pastor of First Baptist Church of Mar Vista, Calif., moved last year that the volume be withdrawn and rewritten because it "is out of harmony with the beliefs of the vast majority of Southern Baptist pastors and people."

The convention resolutions committee called for the delegates to commend President Richard M. Nixon for reducing the number of American troops in Vietnam and urge him to accelerate withdrawal "in keeping with concern for prisoners of war."

The committee also recommended support of the right of parents to enroll their children in nonpublic schools, but opposition to the use of public funds for religious education.

Churches and members are asked to "be alert to developments concerning the use of public funds for religious objectives and to insist that public funds be used for public purposes through public programs."

Water Department Accepts Statement

The Sedalia Water Board Wednesday night unanimously accepted a report of their financial statement for the fiscal year which ended March 31.

The audit, which is required by law, was prepared by Haskins and Sells, a Kansas City certified public accounting firm.

The board also rejected a request by Gary Lower to draw water from a primary source of Sedalia's water supply and install his own purification system. The board believed such action would create water pressure problems for Lower and possibly interfere with the water company's operations.

It was also announced that the state division of health had inspected the Flat Creek plant and would make its report available to the board soon.

Administration Backing Arrests of Protesters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration today continued its counterattack on critics who say the government responded unconstitutionally against the antiwar Mayday demonstrations.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and his top aide, Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst took over in separate speeches where President Nixon left off when he branded participants in the May 3-6 demonstrations as "vandals and hoodlums and lawbreakers."

Shouldering the burden of the administration's rebuttal, Kleindienst said the critics include "sidewalk superintendents" who, "in their eagerness to fault the police," created a fable of what actually took place May 3.

"The truth is that those who leaped forward to cry 'foul' when the Washington police did their duty would have found something to complain about no matter how Mayday was handled," he asserted.

"The truth is that the police foiled an attempt to stop the government with a minimum exercise of authority. Any less authority would have risked letting the mob rule the national capital."

Kleindienst's remarks were in a speech prepared for the Cleveland, Ohio, Rotary Club; Mitchell's were in a speech read for him to a gathering of Washington Explorer Scouts.

Nixon's Tuesday news conference defense of mass arrests by Washington police despite dismissal of charges against most of the 7,000 hauled in May 3 triggered this response from the American Civil Liberties Union.

"It is shocking that the President, sworn to uphold the Constitution, believes he can turn it on and off like a traffic light on the corner to keep cars moving."

And two coordinators of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, which sponsored the May 3-5 attempts to shut down the government, termed Nixon "the chief hoodlum, the chief vandal, the chief lawbreaker in the world today."

Kleindienst said the ACLU, the news media and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., contributed to the fable that the government disregarded constitutional restraints to smash a minimal threat to its continued existence.

He denounced Kennedy for referring to the Mayday activities as "civil disobedience in the American tradition of Thoreau and Martin Luther King."

"Approximately 20,000 disrupters tried their best to carry out their announced intention of paralyzing Washington and stopping the government," Kleindienst said. "They did this by widespread and unremitting acts of violence."

"To compare this vicious and wanton mob attack on Washington with the civil disobedience of Thoreau and Martin Luther King is to insult the memory of those men who stood for peaceful, nonviolent protest," he said.
